The Jackets six match winning streak came to an end when Kentuckey defeated Tech in four games at the Kentucky Invitational.

The Jackets traveled to Kentucky this past weekend to take part in the Kentucky Volleyball Classic in Lexington, Ky. Tech joined Villanova, Toledo and the host team, Kentucky.

The team started their season last week by going a 3-1 during Regency Suites Midtown Invitational. The Jackets' first opponent of the tournament was Villanova. The Wildcats entered the tournament having lost five of six matches, but gave Tech trouble in the first game. However, Tech edged Villanova 31-29.

The Jackets seemed to have solved Villanova as they won 30-23 in the second game. In game three, they found trouble again. The team trailed by double-digits points for much of the game as Villanova bounced the Jackets 30-16.

Tech rebounded and finished off the Wildcats in the fourth game 30-26. Niekamp finished the match with 14 assists and six kills. Lindsey Gray, Talia Kellogg, Callie Miller and Stegman all had double digit kills for the Jackets.

In the second match of the afternoon, Tech battled the Toledo Rockets. The Jackets edged by the Rockets 30-21 in the first game, and cruised by in the second game 30-24.

Tech struggled to close out Villanova, and suffered a similar problem against Toledo. The third game featured four lead changes and three times Tech was within one point of tying the game. Ultimately, the Jackets fell short in game three, but they won the fourth game 30-26. It was a hard fought battle for the Jackets who swept their matches for the day and looked ahead to Kentucky.

We got great leadership from our senior libero Abby Showers and we really needed her work ethic out there at times," said head coach Bond Shymansky of Tech's second match.

On the second day of the tournament, Tech saw their five match winning streak come to a close as the Wildcats of Kentucky finished them in four games. Junior Lindsey Gray had 14 kills and 14 digs while Allie Niekamp had 10 kills and 55 assists to lead the team. After the Jackets looked strong to open the match with a win 30-28, the Wildcats rallied to win three straight games and take the match.

"We learned what the grind is like on the road this weekend, [and] we are excited to come back home this next weekend."

"I just waited for the quarterback to throw it and intercepted it," Lewis said about the throw. "It was pretty much right at me."

With the offense starting the game with a three-and-out drive, Tech had to punt the ball into Samford territory. Two plays later, Samford receiver Josh Breenard tipped a pass from Jefferson Adcock. The tipped ball fell into the hands of Tech's D'Jay Jones, who returned the interception 29 yards for the touchdown.

"It happens," Coach Gailey said when asked if he was worried when the game opened with the short drive. "If you have concerns with each and every drive because it doesn't work out, you're going to end up with an ulcer."

The offense helped by adding three touchdowns before the first half was over. Reggie Ball was 16-for-36 with 833 yards, two touchdowns and an interception. Calvin Johnson recorded his third career multiple touchdown game after ending the half with four receptions for 29 yards and two touchdowns.

"Everybody was real comfortable with [the offense]," Johnson said. "Everyone is starting to like it." On Tech's second drive of the game, Ball demonstrated his skill as a pocket passer by completing all six of his passes for 56 yards. The possession was capped off by adding 142 yards and two touchdowns for 54, 36 and 31 yards.

Tech did not score on the second drive of the game. "A win is a win." Johnson said.

South Florida

After suffering three losing streaks of at least seven games in 2005, the Bulls of South Florida are looking to bounce back with a solid season. In three tournaments this year, South Florida sports a 3-5 record. They are just one win away from matching their 2005 win total after a record of 4-22.

The Bulls are lead by redshirt freshman Marcela Gurgel. She has totalled 142 kills in eight matches and is averaging 4.9 kills a game, which is good enough for the 16th highest kill rate in the nation. She is also a threat as a server, netting 24 aces in 29 games. Her 0.83 aces per game is good for seventh best in the nation.

Although Gurgel has 142 kills, she has committed 67 hit errors and has had 384 attempts, giving her a sub-par 0.195 hitting percentage.

As a team, the Bulls sport a hit percentage of 0.181 while opponents are hitting at a rate of .202.

The Jackets will have to perform better on kickoff coverage if they want to repeat a similar performance against Mississippi State, Tech ran off five victories in a row before being humbled by Kentucky last week in the Kentucky Volleyball Classic. Tech's record currently stands at 3-5 and they are led by their preseason All-ACC players sophomore Taisa Kellogg and junior Uline Stagemann. Each has amassed 84 kills to lead the team. New setter Allie Norkamp has filled in nicely, recording a triple-double in the first game of the season. Lone senior, Abby Showers, has been solid as the new libero. She is averaging over four digs a game and provides senior leadership for the young team. Freshman Chrissy DeKhichels has given Tech a breath of fresh air and has averaged 3.09 kills per game in the five matches in which she has participated. She is the younger sister of sophomore Laura DeKhichels who has not played this year because of a knee injury.

Tech won its first game after the loss to Notre Dame. They look to win tomorrow against a Troy team that pushed No. 9 Florida State on its limits. Ball certainly felt better about the offense and the team after Tech's first win.

Stetson

The Hatters started the season 1-5. They currently sport a 3-6 record coming off of a 2-1 effort at the Stetson Invitational. The Hatters have struggled offensively this year as they are hitting only .285 while the opponent is hitting .336. The opposition has amassed 141 more kills and have committed 37 fewer hitting errors than Stetson, which accounts for the large discrepancy in hit percentage.

In each of their first five losses, the opposition swept the Hatters in three games and in their first victory, Stetson battled to five games after falling behind 2-1. Setting the pace for Stetson is sophomore Rebecca Orzechowicz who leads the team with 47 kills. The most efficient hitter on the team is sophomore Julie Fleming who sports a hit percentage of .228, but is averaging under one kill a game.

Sam Houston State

The Bearkats of Sam Houston State have a 3-4 record coming into the Regionally Midtown Invitational. Senior Lindsey Roebken leads the offense with 73 kills, averaging just under three kills per game. In seven matches this year, the Bearkats are hitting at a rate of .155 but have been solid defensively by holding opponents to that same mark of .155.

In the middle, Jackie Melinder steers the offense with 231 assists, averaging 11 assists per game. In addition, Megan McMamara has 84 assists and averages 7 assists per game. The Bearkats are an aggressive team from the service line, netting 62 aces on the season, but have committed 92 service errors.

Defensively, Sam Houston State has 25 fewer blocks than their opposition as a team. The Bearkats have yet to play a five game match this season and two of the three wins this season have been sweeps.

from page 28 of them. I was nervous and shaking. I made a couple plays, a pass break-up, a couple tackles and a fumble recovery.

Tech wound up losing the game after taking a slim lead into the fourth quarter. During that game, the Seminoles William McCray fumbled inside the Tech 19 yard line. Cox recovered the fumble, securing his first turnover.

As a true freshman, Cox was a big part of the 2000 team. He played in every game as a sophomore and started every game as a junior and a senior.

During his junior year, he blocked the only field goal kick of his career, something that had not happened at Tech since 1996.

He was the only returning starter in the secondary during his senior season.

Off the field, Cox had his direction set as soon as he arrived on the Flat. Cox was recognized as possessing great technical skills. He started Tech in engineering with an interest in the sciences.

"The workload was extensive, but I could handle it. I went to a good high school and put in a lot of hard work. I was in engineering at first, so all my classes were directed towards that," Cox said of Tech's academic program.

There was another important event that occurred while Cox was at Tech. Coach Georgia O'Leary resigned to pursue other opportunities and Galley was hired as the head coach.

"As an athlete, I went through two different head coaches and four different position coaches. It was challenging trying to deal with everything and change my technique according to what each coach liked," Cox said.

Despite these huge changes, he found some stability with defensive coordinator Jon Tenuta.

"For the last two years, my technique was structured around what Jon Tenuta did. He's a really good coach if you know anything about him. I learned a lot from him and honestly, I probably took more from him than any coach ever, including the NFL. As a coach you have to work with what you have. Cox did everything to do things that was 50/50," Cox said.

After handling the situation well, where others had failed, Cox decided it was time to pursue a different route in the academic one.

While he originally wanted to become an engineer, he changed his mind the second time around. He enrolled in the school of management this past fall. He enjoys his return to Tech and for the rest of his lives.

"My first game was against Florida State. I was very nervous lining up against Anquan Boldin and Marvin Minnis."

2000-03 Cornerback

Europe to play for the Rhein Fire in Dusseldorf. When he returned, he had to try out for the Chargers again.

"When I went over to Europe, they kind of made adjustments and did other things without me being there. So they kind of put me on the backburner. It was very frustrating because you're dealing with a lot of politics as opposed to my pure talent. I was cut on the last cut day," Cox said.

Cox's football career struggled to take off after he was cut. He went through three different agents, but all of his attempts to get back into the game ended in disappointment.

"Everything was going against me. It was a lot of trouble dealing with everything, and I guess it just wasn't meant to be. I just moved on. I wanted to do other things with my life anyway, and I didn't want to waste time trying to do something that's 50/50," Cox said.

After handling the situation well, where others had failed, Cox decided it was time to pursue a different route in the academic one.

Between the lines, he described him as a very technically-oriented person.

"Cox's future plans involve entrepreneurship and living in a big city. A few of his ideas involve opening a restaurant or a gym. Being in the real world, you realize that you need a degree. And honestly, I wanted to learn more because I want to open my own business." Cox said.
After nearly upsetting the Seminoles last week, the Trojans look to rebound against an equally-determined Tech squad. A heart-breaking loss had Troy’s linebacker Marcus Richardson promising to use the frustration from the Florida State loss against Tech. Troy’s offensive philosophy relies on the four or five wide receiver spread which enables the offense to stretch the defense and open up the running game. Omar Haugabook completed 49 of 78 pass attempts for 390 yards and five touchdowns so far this year. Tots Runledge has hauled in eight of those passes for 105 yards.

“We sent out a few messages to our future opponents. There is no question that we can get a lot better if we can stay well.”

Tech is coming off of a solid win against Samford where the defense returned two interceptions for touchdowns in the game. This was the first time that had happened in 40 years. Last week Reggie Ball connected with preseason All-American receiver Calvin Johnson for two touchdowns in the victory.

Tech's second team got a chance to earn some playing time to add experience to the depth chart early in the season. Former Troy Head Coach Chan Gailey “wasn’t terribly shocked” after hearing the news of Troy’s near upset of Florida State.

SHARON PERKINS

Sharon Perkins was selected as the new softball coach. She replaces Ehren Earleywine who left for Missouri. Perkins joked with reporters in Tuesday’s press conference about leaving Georgia for Tech.

“I think they have a great start and I think we can keep going from that. We went to the World Series when I was at Southern Miss [as a coach] and we did not even have our own field on campus,” Perkins said.

Perkins will have big shoes to fill as he takes over for Earleywine. For Earleywine, the job offered a return to his home state.

The last time Tech put up more than a touchdown in the fourth quarter was against Wake Forest last year.

In his first season with the Trojans, Gailey led the team to a 7-4 record in 1983 as left Troy State after the 1984 season to join Dan Reeves staff with the Denver Broncos. After spending five years with the Broncos, Gailey coached two seasons with the World League’s Birmingham Fire before returning to the NFL. Gailey also made stops with the Pittsburgh Steelers, Dallas Cowboys and Miami Dolphins before coming to Tech.

JONATHAN COX

Two years after leaving Tech to pursue a career in the NFL, Jonathan Cox makes his return to the Flats as a student. This time, Cox can be found at Tech Square as a Management major instead of Bobby Dodd Stadium.

“A native of Chicago, Ill., he spent three years playing varsity football in high school where he excelled as a safety and wide receiver,” said Cox.

His career highlights featured an 18-tackles game while receiving MVP honors in his high school conference. In addition, he lettered all four years in track and was a member of the National Honor Society.

During Cox’s transition to college, he was recruited by several Big Ten schools. However, he wanted a change in scenery and found his calling when he came to visit his sister at Emory. He decided Atlanta would be a great place to live and play football, turning down opportunities in the Big Ten and other ACC schools.

“Cox expected more when he arrived at Tech to start practicing. The game was not quite as fast on his first year as head coach for the Jackers. Several key players from last year’s team are returning,” Perkins commented on this issue.

“We talked about it, and I know we’ll be discussing it more. They have to look into the situation. I did not come here because of the facilities,” Perkins said.
