What it looks like:
October 15—Ferocious din bursts forth from the Electrical building. At first the students think that Prof. L— is throwing the Architectural section down the steps, or “Blinks” pipe is trying to get out, but later they find that it is only the band having their first practice.

November 5—Boom! Boom! New bass drum arrives, causes five hundred glad hearts and double that number of deafened ears.

6—Street car conductor gently removes bass drum and Aichel from car. Aichel rolls bass drum to the Ball Park.

12—General fire alarm rang in this a. m. The President thinks either the boiler room or Uncle S— has blown up. Is much relieved to find that it is only Frank Holt tuning his trombone.

16—Some talk of a third Glee Club. Chandler elected manager amid tremendous applause and immediately proves conclusively that he is in dead earnest by getting a Coffin as Director.

December 2—Enthusiastic Glee Club practice. All music goes out.

4—None comes in—except Snyder.

13—Levy makes debut as chorus director. Repeats dose next day. Requests that Pappenheimer wear sox of not more than five colors so that the orchestra might be heard.

January 10—Maxim silencer bought for scrap iron quartette.

22—First concert in Chapel. Mandolin quartette scores big hit. Double quartette suffer stage fright, smile sweetly and retire.

February 19—8:30 A.M. Trip to Rome begins. Wait a few minutes (?) at Kingston for engineer to go back and look for his cob pipe. Campbell sees Peary with both hands on the pole. Noon: Arrive in the "City of Hills," and startle natives by singing "Ramblin' Wreck" on the church steps. Several get stung by the "Busy Bee" while a few get coffee. 1:30 P. M. Rehearsal. Director mildly (?) suggests that if we don't C sharp we'll B flat and that he is the boss of this ——— troupe. 4:00 P. M. Swap hearts for cream and cake at Shorter. Several things happen at this stage of the game. Ask Henry Thieson. 8:30 P. M. Concert begins—nuff said. 11:00 P.M. Pedal flinging in Rome gymnasium. Clark learns first lessons in artistic drumming. 20—1 A. M. McCarty enters wrong room. 1:30 Barwick seen combing his pompadour. 2:00 A. M. Patterson eats last ham sandwich in Rome. Meat trust raises price on ham 2½ cents per pound. 3:00 A.M. Several men insist on sitting in the lobby clad only in their programs. 3:30 P. M. Reynolds Clark mistakes Sims' derby for small drum and beats tune on it. Sims appears and he proceeds to "beat it" once more. 4:00 A. M. Patterson gets up for breakfast. 6:00 A. M. Bobby gets Golden experience ordering club breakfast. 7:30 A. M. Train starts for Atlanta minus brother Coffin who inbibed so much College spirit and Rome spirit that he was too full for utterance when the porter did not call. Collins and Harris also found a Miss. (Were seen frequently in the vicinity of the foundry the next week. Some say on account of a Miss in Rome.) Chaplain Snyder assisted by Deacon Oliphant leads Sunday service. Revival music a special feature. Morning offering taken by George Semmes. Arrive in Atlanta Shorter crazy and "Shorter" funds.

March 26—Final Concert at Cable Hall a howling success.

Anak is a senior society whose members are selected from those who have shown the greatest interest and zeal in promoting and helping in any movement which tends to uplift and develop the different phases of college life. The Great object of this society is to originate or help develop by carefully outlined plans such measurers as will make for the betterment of the college. The efforts of the society have met with great success and as the influence of Anak grows even greater success will follow. The Glee Club, The Honor system, The Annual and our Commencement owe their life mainly to Anak.
Here are kept the giants of Anak.

Ye sons of Anak, the greatest show on earth, only 10¢.

Up the great white way, to keep baby covered.

At the game.
Anak Initiation

Heavens! Can this be the missing link found at last! Or can it be some ancient form of monster come back to earth to remind us of the days before fig leaves went out of fashion? See how these half-human, half-dog beings caper along the street, barking joyously at every "Honk wagon" that passes, or tug playfully at the skirts of some terrified maiden! See how obediently they follow those wise men to the windows of King Hardware Company, and there, in a most ideal kennel, seem perfectly at home, and go through all of the antics which any well bred dog should know. What means that word "Anak," which is pasted on to each one? Do you not know? cried an interested onlooker. That is the almighty senior society, and those horrible beings are the poor Juniors doomed to torture before they can attain the dignity of Seniors. Yes! Yes! It is plain now, for I see the face of smiling "Billy" as he sits upon an inverted tub and catches the bite of bread in his upturned mouth, and eagerly barks for more; and there with his head peeping playfully around the house is "Jack;" no, no one could ever mistake that playful nature of his. Over there in the corner crouches "Newt," looking as if his last friend has forsaken him. And there! Can this really be a skye terrier? No! I see that I have done poor "Frank" an injustice for mistaking that beautiful growth of his.

That fierce looking bull dog, can it really be "Hairless Harry?" So it is. How undignified he looks as he rolls over and over upon his back—and there lapping water out of the pan is George. Ah! How could I ever have taken that cherub-like face of his for a dog. Oh Earl! How can you forsake your dignity to take part in such a beastly thing? It makes me almost weep to see you act like this! Don't fight poor little Legg like that when only a bone is at stake!

Oh, it was a pitiful sight! and to think that it did not end there; for out at the Senior-Faculty game could be seen this same motley crew struggling eagerly to ascend the banks of the Ball Park, in a reverse direction from that which the Lord intended. Just as the Seniors have submerged the Faculty this torture is ended and these faithful are decorated with the emblem of Anak.

Ah! Sweet is revenge! See now how these erstwhile dogs are wont to torture the new initiates. 'Tis Thanks giving now, and here coming down the street in an undersized carriage, is an overgrown baby. See how it smokes a pipe and Honks a horn as this hefty Irish nurse propels him along the street. Poor little thing; How he cries for mama! When other children, more fortunate than he, make faces at him. Surely that can be no other than "Tut," and the nurse?—Well, now, if it isn't old "Red." Onward they go to Nunnally's and there after a short talk by the nurse on "The Advisability of substituting a Coca Cola for milk, as a modern Baby Food," and a few nursery rhymes by the baby, it is over; and the people of Atlanta await the results of these fertile brains, which will sprout forth when Seniors yet-to-be, will go through a similar torture, to the final reward.

Class History

Now, thats just the deuce of it; what is a class historian going to say about a class that hasn't any History?
The only thing we have done was to elect officers. With six offices to fill and just six men to fill them, the discussion arose how the six men to fill six offices should be selected. Various and sundry ways were suggested to select the six men to fill the six offices. Our honored president moved that we should shoot high dice for them, this motion being seconded by our Sect. The vote was put, and carried by a large majority, but through respect and feeling for our beloved V. Pres., we decided not to roll “the bones” but to draw straws. The one drawing the longest straw, Pres., next Vice Pres. etc. We then adjourned, the next meeting to be held Feb. 30, 1923.
