The Student Council

The school year of 1922-23 the Student Council of Georgia Tech first came into existence. At the instigation of the Anak Society the Student Council was nominated, elected, and accepted by the faculty for duties embodying all of the constitution of the former Honor Court, and in addition, everything in connection with any activity of the campus.

It was expressly understood that this council was to have full powers of trial and judgment in a case of infraction of the school regulations regarding honor or conduct. They were also to act as an official body through which the student could appeal in cases of dispute with the faculty. The faculty, however, retains the power of finally deciding any question in dispute.

The Student Council was regarded as a distinct improvement over the old system and in the past few years has worked out even better than expected by the most skeptical. Its greatest advantage over the old system was the fact that the student’s viewpoint was presented to the faculty from the student via the council.

The constitution of the Student Council provides that the council shall consist of the President of the Senior Class, the President of the Inter-Fraternity Council, the Editor-in-Chief of the Technique, the President of the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, and the President of the Athletic Association. Also it shall consist of five members elected from the Senior Class, four elected from the Junior Class, two from the Sophomore Class, and one elected member of the Freshman Class.

It is regarded as a signal honor to serve on the Student Council and one of the highest honors that can be conferred on a student while here, and the men who are members at present richly deserve the honor, having proven the worth of their judgment many times during the years they have been with us.
The Blue Print

The Blue Print has come to be as much of an annual institution as football and is looked forward to in the same manner, though hardly as much or as greatly. Nevertheless, the Blue Print, which started away back in the earlier part of this great century, has come to be one of the major non-athletic activities at Tech and a very important one.

The staff of the 1926 year book has worked hard and conscientiously with one outstanding aim and ideal before us—to give to the student what he hopes and expects to receive, that is, an accurate, as nearly so as our humble talents are able, review of his year, 1925-26, spent at Georgia Tech. To give him in written and in photographic form something definite and concrete whereby in later years he may be able by glancing over these pages to forget time and space and live again this year among these familiar surroundings and his old friends.

The annual is for the students and of the students and the staff is presenting it to them for their inspection and approval, which we hope to have merited. There have been many long hours and days of work put into this book, but gladly and willingly if they have accomplished their purpose. We hope to have bettered our Alma Mater also by placing the Blue Print among the foremost books of like nature throughout the country. Whether we have done so or not, time will tell. Such was our intention.
The Technique

From the time that Tech was organized in 1888, up until 1912 there was no regular weekly student publication of any kind. In 1912 Gene Turner founded the Technique as a weekly paper and was the first editor-in-chief. From that time until 1918 the paper enjoyed much prosperity and underwent many changes, such as would be natural with a young publication. In the fall of 1918 the present form of the Technique was adopted and since that time has remained the same with the exception of minor changes. Its influence in the student world has widened considerably and really deserves the reputation of "The South's Livest College Weekly."

The past year can be considered the most successful that the Technique has ever enjoyed. The most noteworthy feature being a pictorial section which was published during football season. It was the first college paper in the South to publish a section of this nature and one of the few in the entire country.

The Yellow Jacket

Although the youngest of the publications at Tech, The Yellow Jacket is up to the high standard maintained by its sister periodicals. Without question one of the best comic monthlies published in the South and holding a place among the best in the country, The Yellow Jacket has fast sprung into prominence and popularity here and elsewhere.

This humorous publication came into being in the spring of 1920 when it was christened "The Golden Tornado." But this magazine's life was but a short one, for as soon as the horrified faculty had perused its spicy pages, it was relegated to the faculty waste basket, that is suppressed, and this tornado blew no more.

However, in the fall of 1920 a similar magazine was started with faculty permission and supervision, under the direction of J. E. Biggs, as editor and R. Beamon as business manager. From that date to the present The Yellow Jacket has grown and expanded and improved with each new year and each new leader that has taken the helm.

Under the leadership of the present editor, "Tex" Barrett, the publication has blossomed out even more than in the past few years, and through his able management and conscientious zeal in regard to the magazine it has taken its place among the leading humorous college papers in the country. "Tex" has been fortunate to secure the services of some of the most capable along editorial, business and art lines to help him this year, and to them should go much of the credit.
The Glee Club

The Glee Club has been in existence at Tech for many years, and only at one time since its organization has it suspended operations, during the war, and then only for two years, after which it started up again. Since the time of its origin the Glee Club has grown and improved with the passing of time up to the present, when it takes its place among the finest clubs of similar nature throughout the Southern schools.

Being one of the most popular activities at Tech, those in charge each year experience no difficulty in getting the men to try out for it. And at the beginning of each school year, the greatest problem is choosing the desired number from all the talent which turns out, but when this stupendous task is accomplished the result has been found to be a well-rounded club of singers, dancers, musicians and comedians, each artist in their own particular line.

In the past few years the popularity of the Georgia Tech Glee Club has grown considerably in the towns throughout this and neighboring states visited by the club on its trips, until the present, when the advent is looked forward to with keen anticipation and packed houses greet the performances wherever shown.

A Review of the Glee Club Season

By William S. Scherffies

The fact that the Glee Club of 1926 has worked up the best show by far that has ever been seen by a college glee club in the South, and that this is a fact is undisputable, should be credited to several who have worked hard to accomplish this end. Mainly through the conscientious effort and unceasing toil of "Skinny" Edge and Web Brown, the president and business manager, and through the co-operation of George M. Sparks, publicity director and general consultant, has this been done, and to these men should the credit be given.

Departing from the time-worn college glee club programs, Georgia Tech this year entered a new field in the "attention appeal" idea and under the direction of Leroy Prinz developed a program not only balanced in type and theme but highly diverting throughout.

Mr. Prinz was formerly head of the club of Northwestern University and originator of the most pleasing skits in "No, No, Nanette" and "Artists and Models" and the success of the development of his ideas may be seen by the enthusiasm with which the glee club performances were greeted, wherever the club played.

As musical director, the club secured the services of James Alderson, at present musical director and organist at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Atlanta, to whose efforts the success of the season was so largely due.

The performance was divided into two parts, the first being of the vaudeville type in six scenes, comedy, harmony, syncopation and the art of terpsichore being blended with effortless ease into an entertainment pleasing alike to eye and ear, while the second half of the program was presented as the modern minstrel, vocal harmony, orchestral numbers in sympho-jazz with lively black-face interludes keeping the show moving at a rapid gait from curtain to curtain.

Two shows were presented this year before the long trip was taken, the first being in Conyers, Ga., on February 5, and the second in Marietta, February 13.

The week's trip began on March 15 with a performance in Macon, followed in succession by performances in Barnesville and Thomaston. From fresh praises there, the club journeyed to Cedartown and completed a week of entertainment and enjoyment on the club's side by presenting the show in Dalton, Ga., Friday, and Chattanooga, Tenn., Saturday nights.

On Saturday evening, March 27, the glee club presented before a packed house at the Atlanta Theater, their final performance of the season, thus completing one of the most successful years in the history of the organization. The club was acclaimed by the public and press throughout the state and wherever shown as the most pleasing of college shows ever seen.

Having been established early in the career of the Georgia School of Technology around the first part of the twentieth century, the Marionettes has always been one of the most popular of the non-athletic activities on the campus. From the time of its origin up to the present date the club has had the reputation of successfully presenting plays of varied character in a highly artistic manner with the interpretation of character and plot development portrayed with a high degree of skill.

The past season has been no exception and the play presented by the club was received with enthusiasm wherever shown. The Marionettes worked hard on their production and merited the praise given them for their efforts in "The Bad Man" as in all the other plays given by them. A great deal of the credit should go to Mr. Scherffius for it was largely through his efforts and industry that the Marionettes have been up to their high standard and maintained their place among the leading dramatic organizations of the Southern schools and universities.

Review of the Marionette Season

By William S. Scherffius

Gun-play and blood-shed, murder and sudden death, with all the tricks of the old time melodrama, skillfully blended with humor, pathos and comedy, ushered in the season of 1925-26.

From the peaceful setting of a Long Island home to the primitive life of Arizona and Mexico is a far cry, yet the ever versatile Marionettes encompassed this range in a single season and all who saw the spring production of "The Bad Man" agreed that in histrionic ability and technical perfection the club reached a new water mark of success.

The undoubted star of the performance was Frazier Law, who, as Pancho the cheerful and philosophical bandit, rode in from the shimmering heat of a desert noon and departed with the starlight, leaving his simple and direct solution of all problems that perplex mankind; removing the cause by the casual bullet.

The Atlanta performances in May marked the loss of an old and valued friend, Harry Ellerbe, Marionette star and former president, who had for two years directed the club, and to whose untiring efforts the success of so many performances is so largely due.

The club departed from its previous policy in the fall by reviving, for road presentation the spring production. Due to the intervening commencement and summer, it was found necessary to almost entirely recast the play, yet under the joint direction of "Duke" Scherffius and Henry Ligon, "The Bad Man" rapidly rounded into shape and the first trip was taken early in November.

Henry Ligon stepped into the shoes of Pancho Lopez and again displayed that versatility that has made him the club's leading character actor, while William Scherffius aged rapidly from the role of the red-headed cowboy to that of the peppery Uncle Henry in his wheel chair.

The Marionette Orchestra, which has always been a feature of the club performances this year, reached new levels in their interpretation of sympho-jazz and incidental songs. They have added that finish to the performances which has made the club famous in Georgia and the neighboring states.

Besides the big parade of the club, the Marionette Freshmen presented at several performances, under the direction of Fulmer Wells, the famous "Sneezer et Cleopatrick"—a burlesque in one spasm.

As this annual is going to press work is rapidly progressing on the spring play of 1926, "The Backslapper," but that is another story.

Honorary Organizations

Phi Kappa Phi, the highest and oldest honorary scholastic fraternity on the campus, was established at Tech in 1914. Only those seniors who for three years have distinguished themselves in scholarship and activities in which they are engaged are elected to this coveted honor.

Pi Delta Epsilon is a national journalistic fraternity whose members are elected after they have completed two years of successful work on student publications. This fraternity ranks very high, both nationally and on the campus, and to be a member is the honor and reward conferred on the hard-working journalists of our campus.

Scabbard and Blade is a national honorary military fraternity. Its members are elected from the senior class and only members of that class who are officers in the Tech R.O.T.C. unit. This fraternity has an extremely high standing in military circles.

Tau Beta Pi is an honorary engineering fraternity. It is considered to be a very high honor to be elected a member of this fraternity. Men are elected to it from the upper quarter of the senior class. Its members are selected from men of high scholastic standing and general efficiency. This fraternity was established at Tech two years ago.

The Anak Society is composed of members of the senior class only, and election to membership in this society is the highest honor that can be conferred on a senior. Its members are elected on the basis of character and leadership in student activities. This society originally had charge of all campus activities, but some of its powers were later invested in other organizations.

Delta Sigma Pi is an honorary commercial fraternity which has been in existence for several years and since it started has grown to be one of the strongest of honorary commercial fraternities. Its members are elected from upperclassmen of the commerce department who have shown unusual ability in their class work and prominent in school activities.

Koseme—The Koseme Society is composed of members elected from the junior class yearly. The purpose of this society is to improve general conditions around Tech. The Koseme Society also has charge of various student activities, among which are the annual cross-country run, and all freshman class activities.

Kappa Psi Phi is an honorary musical fraternity composed solely of musicians in the band and in the school. It has done considerable work with reference to securing better cooperation and fostering a better spirit among the students.

The Bull Dogs is a purely social organization and is one of the oldest on the campus. Its membership is composed of upperclassmen who are outstanding and prominent in campus activities. This organization has a high rating on the campus and it is considered quite an honor to be elected one of its members.

The Phi Psi fraternity is an honorary textile fraternity, having as requirements to membership all-round ability in school work and extra-curricula activities. Membership is restricted to upperclassmen in the textile course.
