On the field of honor and sportsmanship we learn how to lose and how to win. This quality carries with us through our lives and actions. To give and to take is here taught, and we learn one of Life's greatest lessons.

FOR eleven years Coach Alexander, known to all as Coach Alex, has been a mentor in Southern Athletics. Georgia Tech is indeed fortunate in having so wise a man to head its athletic endeavors. His football team has become known from Coast to Coast, as one with the "never say die spirit".

THROUGH Coach Mundorf's efforts the basket-ball team has become one of the best in the South. During his seven years at Tech he has carried on the mid-year athletics in a superb manner. Besides being head coach of basket-ball he is assistant coach of baseball.

COACH CLAY who is baseball coach and coach of the Freshman football team, has been on the Flats for sixteen years. During this time, he has aided in the building up of Tech's athletics, and has become known as "Kid" Clay. It is with him the Tech freshman starts his college athletic career.

COACH HAMM, holder of the International Olympic Broad Jump record, is now coach of Georgia Tech's track squad. In the selection of Ed Hamm as track coach, a wise choice was made because of his proven ability.
Coach William A. Alexander

NATIONALLY known not only as a football coach but also as a builder of men, Coach William A. Alexander has, during his years at Georgia Tech, won the loyalty and esteem of all who have come in contact with him.

As a member of the National Rules Committee, he has been instrumental in making football the game that it now is. Tech may be justly proud of so great a coach as "Coach Alex."

Captain Earl Owen Dunlap

CARRYING with him always a spirit of true sportsmanship, Captain Earl Owen Dunlap has performed his duties as captain of the football team in a commendable manner.

Under his leadership, the spirit of the team never faltered. Though handicapped by injuries which prevented his best efforts, he was a field captain Tech will long remember.

1930 Football Review

By Ed Danforth

Sports Editor, Atlanta Constitution

GEORGIA TECH's football establishment in 1930 passed through what perhaps was the low point of the downward swing of the pendulum that began its descent after the Yellow Jackets defeated the University of California in the Rose Bowl, Pasadena, January 1, 1929.

In the fall of that year a team, riddled in the rush line by graduation of many stars of that memorable game, won but three out of nine games in the fall campaign. Then last year a handful of survivors of the far western triumph plus a fleet of earnest but inept Sophomores battled through another hard schedule, winning two and tying one out of nine games.

That the Tech gridiron fortunes reached the extreme of depression and now have started upward is sensed by the vigorous action taken by the athletic board at instance of Head Coach W. A. Alexander at the close of the season and the powerful address made by the head coach at the annual football banquet.

Coach Alexander pointed out that in ten years of athletics at Georgia Tech, including that New Year's game, the Gold and White had won 7 out of 10 contests in all sports. In the two-year period then ending they had won 1 out of 10. He pointed out that this undoubtedly was caused by a lack of the traditional spirit. He blamed campus politics for the spiritual decay. Then for the first time in Tech football history the head coach announced that no election of football captain would be held by the letter winners. He proclaimed that all would report for spring practice on an equal basis and that in the fall a captain would be elected from those eligible for the team.

Bill Fincher, line coach, and Mike Miles, backfield coach, were replaced respectively by Jack Cannon, of Notre Dame fame, and Bobby Dodd, the Tennessee star. The revamped coaching staff has just concluded an inspiring period of spring practice in which the old Tech spirit is reflected in the squad. Prospects are that Tech's 1931 team will begin beating back toward the heights that were held by the Gold and White for more than a decade.

The 1930 football season was disappointing but inevitable. In the line were the last few of the Rose Bowl stars but the backfield material was mostly inexperienced. Sid Williams and Harold Oltz, experienced backs and punters, were lost to the squad before the first game was played. Then an unprecedented run of injuries cost the services of Captain Earl Dunlap and Douglas Graydon, other experienced backs. This left the burden to be shouldered by a group of first year men who fought gallantly but lacked the experience to cope with the calibre of opposition on Tech's schedule.
FOOTBALL

THE Jackets won an easy victory over South Carolina in the opening game 45 to 0. It was too easy a victory, perhaps. Every break came the way of the Engineers. It gave them an unwarranted feeling of confidence and perhaps led them into taking their next week's practice too casually.

The turning point of the season came suddenly and with sickening precision on the field at Carnegie Tech. The Skibos fell upon a Tech team that was utterly unable to cope with the swift running attack and they were routed 31 to 0. That defeat no doubt made a powerful impression on the Sophomore backs. Dunlap and Graydon were hurt early in the game and the heavy Carnegie Backs ran past the youngsters all afternoon.

The Yellow Jackets limped back home and worked hard to get ready for Auburn. The Plainsmen got the jump, however, and scored two touchdowns in the first half. It looked very bad indeed for the home club. But they came back doggedly and launching a cool, well-knit offensive, they scored two touchdowns themselves and kicked both goals to net a 14 to 12 victory. That achievement was a far greater performance than was believed at the time. The Sophomore backs performed well indeed.

Tulane, later to emerge undefeated, came to the Flats next with a superb eleven that struck hard and fast and scored three touchdowns in the first half. Defensive weaknesses permitted the Greenies to dash through the Jacket line for two long runs for touchdowns; the other counters came easily. The final score was 28 to 0.

With two defeats in four games played, the Yellow Jackets rallied and reached their best form against North Carolina the next week and yet could get no better than a 6-6 tie. They outplayed the Tarheels considerably yet the breaks cut down their effectiveness.

THE Jackets continued to play up to their capabilities against Vanderbilt and lost 6 to 0 in a game that might just as easily have been a victory for the Flats boys. It simply was not Tech's year. Battered physically and discouraged by having their best efforts fall short of victory, the Yellow Jackets invaded Philadelphia to play Pennsylvania on Franklin Field. The Quakers beat them with a forward and lateral passing attack 34 to 7. Again the Jackets developed a strong offense and for a time looked like a possible winner but their defense was leaky when footballs were flying.

Florida came to Atlanta Thanksgiving Day and won by the tremendous score of 55 to 7. It was the worst defeat ever suffered by a Tech team on Grant Field. For one quarter the Yellow Jackets looked superior to the enemy and scored a touchdown. Then the Gators started running and passing. Every move the Gators made counted for yards and touchdowns. Tech gained nearly as many yards from scrimmage as Florida did, scored first and kept on threatening. But by one of those queer turns of football, every time Florida got the ball a touchdown was rung up on a pass or long run. There was nothing to do but grin and bear it.

In the ten days that intervened before the Georgia game, Coach Alexander put his men through strenuous practice. He gave them new formations. And the boys sobered by their harrowing experiences got down to earnest work. The Yellow Jackets played their best game all around against Georgia. They wrestled furiously with one of the best elevens Georgia ever had but yielded a decision 13 to 0. It was a great game, magnificently played by both sides. There in the twilight of the season a Tech team that had gamely taken every rebuff the gridiron can offer rose to its greatest performance and in some respects Georgia had to play its best game to win.

Gray Devils

Freshman Squad
COACH MUNDORF'S basketeers managed to flash their golden jerseys about the court in a big way this season, with lots of fast passing and shooting as well as a stone-wall defense. As for scorers, gentlemen, they had them.

Bill Perkins, that long, rangy center, shot baskets from every angle and piled up enough points to break the Southern Conference scoring record by a big margin. Gooding had a wonderful record which was also above the Conference mark.

Although Phillips' scoring did not rank with that of Perkins and Gooding, his passing and fast floor-work was largely responsible for a number of the Jackets' victories.

The defense, led by Captain Wages was a stumbling-block to every opponent. They worked like well-oiled machinery and carried the ball into their opponents' territory with a lightning-like precision. Wages was all over the court dribbling around and through the opponents to bring the ball into shooting territory, while Tate was always on hand to block any shots that might come his way.

RAINES, the Vienna "flash", was lost to the team practically all season due to a leg injury, but should be in shape next year and promises to be one of Tech's best men.

As first string substitutes, Tech had Tom Jones, Ed Herron, and McArthur of football fame; Mathes at guard and Sullivan at forward. They were always on hand with a good many points which brought Tech several victories.

The team started out the scheduled season with three defeats handed them by South Carolina, the Atlanta Athletic Club, and Florida. Then the tables turned and they scored a win over Vanderbilt, only to be downed in their next game which was with Georgia.

The Tech men then redeemed themselves by coming back and winning three straight victories over Auburn, Tennessee, and Georgia. Vanderbilt, the next encounter to follow this winning streak, was not so submissive as before, and got the edge on the Tech team as did Kentucky in the next game.
Tennessee came along and fell with a big thud, but in the third game with Georgia there seemed to be something lacking and Tech had to give up another victory to the Red and Black.

Kentucky took advantage of the team's temporary down trodden spirit and played for another win. Then with a suddenness that was breath taking the Jackets got right and won the last three games of their schedule from Alabama, South Carolina, and Auburn.

Having won nine out of seventeen games, Tech went into the Southern Conference Tournament with much determination, but alas and alack, without several good men, and were put out only after a very closely fought game with the flashy Florida team.

Georgia Tech's Baseball Squad started out the 1931 season with the Reading, Pennsylvania, team of the International League. They went through the Jackets for three straight games in their professional style. Each game only lasted seven innings as it was still training season for both teams, and Coach Clay was sounding his way out and smoothing off the rough edges before the plunge into the regular conference schedule. In these games the Tech team was hitting the apple, but the Northerners' fielding seemed to hold them away from the home plate.

Following this series of games Tech jumped into the Southern Conference schedule by playing South Carolina in Atlanta. The first game was a big storm and the visitors got eleven hits for eleven runs, while the Jackets only brought in one run. The second game, however, was not an excuse for a sob story as the boys from Carolina got only four runs to Tech's three.

Mercer was the next in line and Kid Clay's boys journeyed to Macon, where they lost their first game to Mercer seven to nine. The next day they got up with more "vim, vigor, and vitality" and came through for a thirteen to one victory. Still they were cracking the ball and netted twenty hits in these two games.

Gainesville, Florida, was the next stop where the Tech Squad met the Gators for the third series of the season. Again they were not able to click and bring in those runs, and lost both games to the Florida boys by a small margin.

The next few days after returning to Atlanta were spent in strenuous practice, preparing for the coming games with Oglethorpe. The first game was called on account of darkness after eight innings, but netted another win eight to seven for Tech. Next day the Petrels took the game by a close six to four victory over the Tech Squad.

Following the game with Oglethorpe, Mercer came to Atlanta, determined to win, but to no avail as the boys from the Flats took the first game by hard hitting and excellent fielding, with a score of seven to three.

There remain thirteen games yet to be played on the schedule. As the season goes on the Jackets should be able to go through rest of their games and the end of the season promises to find Tech near the top in the Southern Conference.

Captain Fred Holt, first baseman, is an able leader and has that knack of snatching them in from all directions. He can always be depended on for a hit when it is most needed. In the infield are Isaacs, Ritchie, and Hogsed, who are good support for any pitcher and are a crew of hard hitters. The outfield is composed of McKee, Waldrep, and Harper, who know what is expected of them and are men able to deliver the goods whether it be fielding or knocking the ball out of the lot.

In the box are: Baker, Everett, Mitchum, Crowley, and Henderson. What can be done with a baseball, these boys do. Strange as it may seem these boys all have an eye for the ball and rank with the best of them in bringing in their share of hits. Behind the plate are Farmer, and Dawson. Their pegging arms cannot be beaten, and they also are able to send a number of hits far out into the field where no one seems to be waiting for them.

Tom Wilson, and A. O. Evans, are the Senior managers this year and are doing a fine job in keeping the affairs of the team straight. A lot of the spirit of the team depends upon how well these managers do their job, and this year the Baseball Squad has two managers who know their stuff.
BASEBALL

Besides the Southern Conference, Tech is a member of the Dixie League, organized by the coaches of the leading colleges of the South. Coach Alexander is president of this league and its purpose is to stimulate more interest in college baseball. In the near future this should be one of the leading conferences in the country.

The results of this year’s Track are not obtainable at this time, as the season is not over as this publication goes to press, but we will endeavor to give you the results so far.

The results this year so far are as follows:

In the first Indoor Meet at Chapel Hill the outcome was not as good as could be expected, for Tech only placed two men who scored any points at all. This was due to adverse weather conditions and the fact that the members of the squad were not in their best condition.

The next meet was against Furman in which the squad came through with a score of 91 to their opponents’ 35. In the North Carolina meet the following week the team was defeated by the score of North Carolina’s 88 to Tech’s 38 points, but this shows a decided improvement over last year, as the score was then 107 to 27, in favor of North Carolina.

As the rest of the meets have not been run as yet, we can only give the schedule that is to be followed:

April 18 — Clemson at Clemson, no meet because of quarantine.
April 28 — Southeastern A. A. U.
May 2 — University of Georgia, in Atlanta.
May 9 — Auburn, at Auburn.
May 15-16 — Southern Conference Meet, at Birmingham.

Much of the success of this season depends on the following men:

Asbury: Harrell is the Captain of Cross-Country and of the Squad this year. He is a half-miler, and an excellent distance man.

LaForge: Charlie is a 220 and 440 man, and much is expected of him this year. He is a Junior and will be with the Squad next year.

Goldsmit: Jerry is also a 220 and 440 man, and has shown up very well. This is his first year and so far he has made a fine record.

Cain: Tom is the discus thrower and a prospective record breaker.

Weatherford: Due to the fact that Bus has pulled a muscle he has not been able to put forth his best efforts.

Viereck: A new man on the team this year, but one who proves to be a threat in the 100 and 220.

Foxhall: So far this season Ed has carried Tech’s colors in the high and low hurdles.

Williams: Up from the Freshman ranks of last year, Herb comes as a brilliant dash man and low hurdler.

Graydon: Doug placed in the Intercollegiate Meet last spring. He is a veteran of the Squad and will no doubt hold up his record.

Jones: In the putting of the shot and throwing of the discus, Casey will uphold his part of the team’s efforts.

De Jarnette: A consistent pole vaulter to whom we are looking for honors in this event.

Bailey: A shot-put man of no little ability.

Geggenheimer: A distance man who can be depended upon.
To become a member of the Varsity Squad a Freshman must go through a year on the team from which Tech draws her future track stars. Under the coaching of Ed Hamm, whose record is known to all followers of collegiate track, the Freshman is under a man who knows from experience just what is required to make champions.

Up to the time of the writing of this article the Freshman Squad has had only one meet. That meet was with Tech High School, and it ended in a tie.

Those showing promise this season are Gatlin, Miller, Murray, Kelly, Edwards, Prater, Wardell, and Archer.

The schedule of the rest of the spring is as follows:

April 16—Boys’ High School.
May 2—University of Georgia Freshmen.
May 9—Auburn Freshmen.

Freshman Squad

Tech’s cross-country team started off last fall with an overwhelming victory over Clemson. The next opponent was Georgia and that old jinx along with tough luck crept upon them and they lost to these old rivals of ours by only a few points. In the third meet the Jackets met Auburn and though they battled hard they were downed by the long-winded Plainsmen.

Captain Harrell Asbury was the life of the team and his loss by graduation will be greatly felt. However, under the guidance of captain-elect Geggenheimer, next year’s team should be able to “show their stuff”. Along with Captain Asbury, three other seniors will not be back next year.

Those who received letters were: Asbury, Geggenheimer, Lenard, Read, Wasden, Furlow, Von Hermann, and Johnson.

Cross-Country Squad
TENNIS

Tech's men were hitting a fair stride in the 1930 season. Having won three matches, tied three, and lost four, they went into the Georgia State Intercollegiate Tournament with lots of determination. In the singles Captain Williamson went to the finals, but was defeated in a close match. Goldin and Conniff, Tech's doubles team, drove their way through to win the doubles title.

Captain Williamson, Sid Goldin, and Pinkie Reybold played their last matches for Tech this year and left places to be filled, but with Conniff back as a stellar player, and some prospective men coming up from the Freshman class, the outlook for 1931 is very good.

Team Personnel for 1930:
Captain Williamson, Reybold, Goldin, and Conniff.

The season:
Tech defeated Tennessee
Tech lost to Florida
Tech tied Kentucky
Tech defeated Sewanee
Tech lost to Alabama
Tech lost to North Carolina
Tech lost to Tulane
Tech defeated Georgia
Tech tied Georgia

GOLF

Tech's 1930 Golf Team did well in holding its own against some exceedingly stiff competition. During a trip through the East, they managed to grab a victory from Swathmore, but found Pennsylvania's and Princeton's experienced men a little too much for them.

In our own Southern Conference, they won four out of the seven matches played and at the Conference Tournament in Birmingham, Ed Herron qualified for the final round. With three men back for the 1931 Team, they should stack up with the best.

Team Personnel for 1930:
Captain Charles Brimby, Scott Hudson, Ed Herron, and Dick Voorhes.

With Sewanee .................................. Tech Won

1931 Squad
THE Georgia Tech Swimming Team began a very successful season this year under the capable direction of Coach Raymond Eaton, who was able to get the team into condition to defeat all opponents by a large number of points. For the fifth year the Tankmen have brought the Southern Conference Swimming Championship to Tech.

Only six veterans returned from last year, among them being Fleming Cooper, who captained this year's team; Alfred Kennickel, high point man of last year and alternate captain of this year, and Ed Fain, team manager.

Too much can not be said in praise of the Sophomores this year. Especially is this true of "Ish" Williams, who was not only high point man this year, but also brought fame to Georgia Tech at the National Collegiate Swimming Meet in Chicago by placing in the fifty and hundred yard dashes. Williams also made a name for himself, in the South, by establishing new Southern Conference records in the fifty and hundred yard dashes. It is very unlikely that these records will be broken, unless he himself does it. Williams is also on the record breaking Medley Relay Team, the other two members being Charles Wagner, and Van Brown. Harry Stover, another Sophomore, did very well in diving and fifty yard events, and was second high point man. Charles Wagner set a new Conference record in the back-stroke.

The season's results for this year were as follows:

Tech 51  Emory . . . . 15
Tech 43  Opponents . . . . 43  State Meet
Tech 45  Florida . . . . 30
Tech 55  Georgia . . . . 23
Tech 53  Opponents . . . . 64  Conference Meet

In the Conference Meet Tech made 53 points, and the closest opponent, Georgia, made only 26.

1931 Team

COACH EATON, COOPER, KENNIKEL, WAGNER, WISE, GOWAN, PATTEN, J. INGLE, BROWN

STOVER, ADAMS, C. INGLE, WILLIAMS

BOXING

BOXING was again a big success under the able coaching of Mike Chambers this year.

A preliminary tournament was held early in February and four men were picked in each class to compose the squad. These men underwent a siege of strenuous training for a month and a half and when the final tournament rolled around late in March, the boys had just about reached "pro" form.

In the finals of this tournament Norton defeated Scordas in the fly-weight class; McNicholas retained his title over Owens in the bantam-weight class; Jim Thompson carried his title over Rip Hardeman in the feather-weight class, while Blev Thompson lost his light-weight title to Hearne. Freyer won in the welter-weight class over Berlin; Morris defeated Hungerford in the middle-weight section; Adams won over Singleton for the light-heavy-weight title, and Lackey pounded his way through Cherry's guard to take the heavy-weight title.

Those receiving varsity letters were: Norton, McNicholas, J. Thompson, B. Thompson, Hearne, Freyer, Merry, Morris, Adams, and Lackey.
The Rifle Team this year won first place in the Fourth Corps Area Match, and was awarded a Team trophy. The individual members received medals.

The Tech Team has been selected as one of the two teams to represent the Fourth Corps Area in the National Intercollegiate Match.

Two teams have been entered in the William Randolph Hearst Trophy Match. One of these teams won second place last year, in the Southern Division for Senior Units.

The Georgia Tech R. O. T. C. Fencing Club was organized three years ago mainly through the efforts of Prof. R. T. Morenus, P. F. Wimberly, and W. A. Ruth. The passing of three years has seen this club grow rapidly to a recognized minor sport on the Tech campus.

Fencing is a clean, interesting sport that is gaining steadily in popularity with Tech students. Under the untiring coaching of P. F. Wimberly and Prof. Morenus the club has developed excellent swordsmen who have brought distinction and victories to Tech. The past season has been a very noteworthy one. The team journeyed to Athens to engage in an informal match and then went to the University of North Carolina to enter in the Southern Conference Tournament, where they conducted themselves with gratifying success.

The personnel of the team is as follows:

H. BEERLIN

At the athletic events held here at Tech these men do their part by keeping up that old pep and fight, which is so necessary to the men who are out on the field, court, or diamond. This year the Cheer Leaders have also had the job of taking care of the Yellow Jacket Club, and are to be complimented on the manner in which this pep organization has been led.

The members of the cheer leaders are:

K. C. BROWN, Head Cheer Leader
J. C. MADDOX
J. B. McGINNIS
P. B. PATTERSON
W. J. WATSON
