The Jackets started off the season by defeating the South Carolina Gamecocks three games in a row. On December 30th, the Jackets played the Gamecocks in Augusta, Ga., and with only two juniors and four sophomores, the Jackets defeated Carolina in an overtime period by the narrow margin 39-34. Sophomore David Crosby began to show his merit by being the offensive star of the game with fourteen points to his credit. In their next encounter with South Carolina, the Jackets emerged victorious by the score of 44-35. Jimmy Hearn led the team with eighteen points and this was just too much for the Gamecocks. The Jackets defeated Carolina 41-34 on January 7th, in Tech's new gymnasium. The game was mostly a defensive encounter with only five points being scored in the first twelve minutes. At the half Carolina led 16-12, but in the second period Tech's offense began to click and Tech again won. Carlton Lewis showed his defensive and offensive form that has made him one of the best guards in the Southeastern Conference.

In the fourth game of the season the Jackets really went on an offensive spree and defeated the Clemson Tigers by a score of 63-51. The Jackets scored the first nine points of the game, and with Lewis, Blackwell, and Stevens consistently making the net cords swish, the Tigers were never able to catch up with the Jackets. It was in this game that Tech's sensational sophomores began to get over their nervousness and began to play the basketball that they were capable of playing.

Rallying in the second half, the Yellow Jackets stung Ole Miss by a score of 60-47 to gain their first Southeastern Conference victory.

Tech won their sixth game of the season from Vanderbilt with the score of 55-48. The highlight of the game was the work of Buck Stevens who added to his point average by shooting eleven points. At this point in the season, the Jackets were at the top of the Southeastern Conference standings.

Then the story changed, the greenness of the sophomores began to show. As the team went after their seventh straight victory, the Jackets suffered their first defeat of the season at the hands of Kentucky by a score of 47-37. The Southeastern Conference Champs displayed an experienced, skilled and superior ball team that just could not be beaten. Although the Jackets outplayed the Wildcats during the second half, the lead gained by Kentucky in the first half proved sufficient to win the game.

On the Jackets first road trip, Clemson revenged their previous defeat at the hands of Tech by the small margin of 52-49. In spite of the fact that Carlton Lewis shot twenty-three points, the Tigers came out the victor in a highly exciting game that was won only after playing an overtime period.

In their next encounter, which was with Tulane, the Jackets again came out on the wrong end of the score, 37-20. Tech had one of those nights in which nothing could be done right and everything could be done wrong. Tulane took advantage of these weaknesses and defeated the Jackets decisively.

In a two-game series with Auburn, the Jackets won the first game 48-37 but lost the second game 51-45. The Jackets showed great form in defeating the team which was at that time at the top of the Southeastern Conference standings. Carlton Lewis recovered his shooting eye and accounted for twenty of Tech's points. Down at Auburn it was a different story. Although Hoyt Blackwell shot seventeen points, at the end of the game the Jackets were still six points behind.

Tech traveled next to Athens where the University of Georgia defeated the Jackets 31-26. Even though Tech allowed Georgia only eight points in the last half, Tech’s defense was lax during the first half, and this permitted the Bulldogs to build up a lead that the Jackets could not overcome.

In the most exciting game of the season the boys from L. S. U. defeated the Jackets 34-32. This game was close all the way and L. S. U. won only in the last thirty seconds of play.
With only Alabama, Vanderbilt, Kentucky, and Georgia left to be played, the Jackets are almost assured of two wins out of this group. The Southeastern Conference Tournament is yet to be played but you can rest assured that Tech’s Jackets will be in there fighting from start to finish. Some folks might complain but it can always be said—Tech led the Conference for a while.

Don’t forget about the freshmen. They have a team also. The team this year was formed around Jake Lance, and with Jake acting as a bulwark they have already won their first two games.

The first game was with McCallie and they were literally swamped by the freshmen to the score of 39-31. Jake Lance led the offensive side of the game with twenty-three points while defensively it was Charlie Scruggs that saved many a basket.

In their second encounter the freshmen played a much more organized game of ball and defeated Baylor 46-28. Using a fast breaking offense, the freshmen forged into the lead at the first of the game and were never headed. Jack Reckard shot fourteen points to lead Tech offensively.

With improvement being shown every day, the freshmen are almost sure to defeat their remaining opponents, Monroe A. & M. and Darlington.

Yup! THE FRESH HAVE A TEAM TOO!

The Interfraternity Council is the governing board for all fraternities on the campus. Having two representatives from each national fraternity, with Dean Floyd Field as an adviser, it controls all interfraternity and school-fraternity relations. It promotes interfraternity competition in sports and scholarship. As its major activity, the council sponsors two sets of dances each year—the first series, Midterms, at the end of the first semester, and the second series, Finals, at the end of school. This year the Interfraternity Council was host to the Southern Interfraternity Conference at its annual convention.

Alpha Tau Omega, well-known as the oldest fraternity on the Tech campus, this year has the largest membership in the chapter's long history. As in years gone by, A. T. O's again were outstanding in campus activities and organizations with the seniors leading the way. Among them are King, business manager of the Blue Print, Omicron Delta Pi, Anak, and Tau Beta Pi; Stovall, Anak, and Student Council; Hamilton, president of the Engineers' Council; Goodman, Senior basketball manager; Mumma in track; Darby, secretary of the Interfraternity Council; and Cochran, Davis, Lowry, Olive, Perritt, Staton, Tribble, and Wadsworth. The Alpha Tau Omega formal was one of the finest of the season, and along with numerous house dances, buffet suppers, and hay rides rounded out the social activities.

From the portals of Beta Kappa this year goes one of the most outstanding groups of seniors we have ever produced. These men include Ed Marshall, President of Interfraternity Council, Bob Check, Editor of the Georgia Tech Engineer, Richard Culpepper, Lester Neely, George Fay, Ray Kolli, Bill Maynard, Elmer Mount, Tom Ricks, and Ken Wright. Beta Kappa has the distinction of winning the scholarship cup given by the Interfraternity Council for five out of the past ten years. With annual formal dance and numerous house parties and other functions, Beta Kappa has been one of the most successful social leaders.

Beta Theta Pi is entering its 102nd year of continuous existence as a national social fraternity. Founded at Miami University in 1839, it now has ninety chapters, with a total membership of more than forty thousand. The local chapter, Gamma Eta, was installed at Tech in 1917 and has been well represented by its members in nearly all campus organizations and activities.

Outstanding among the Beta seniors are Craig Davis, member of O. D. K., Pi Delta Epsilon, and editor of the "Technique"; R. T. Spangler, chapter president, and president of Kappa Eta Kappa, electrical engineering society; Bruce Bailey, editor of the BLUE PRINT and member of Alpha Chi Sigma, honorary chemical fraternity; Dick Forrest, member of Phi Psi, honorary textile engineering fraternity and associate editor of the "Georgia Tech Alumni"; and John Wear, business manager of the "Yellow Jacket", and president of Glee Club.

Beta Theta Pi is also prominent socially, having numerous house dances and parties during the year, climaxced by the annual Beta Kid Party.

Known as the first Greek-letter fraternity to be chartered, Chi Phi has been in existence since 1824. The chapter will this year graduate one of the largest and most outstanding groups of Seniors since its existence on the Tech campus. Everyone knows the Chi Phi house as the place to go after the football games, as a bid is graciously extended to all the fraternity men.

Other house functions throughout the year helped round out a successful social season. The athletic teams also actively entered all intramural contests, and the bowling team was a constant threat in the White League.

Chi Psi is celebrating its hundredth year of continuous existence as a conservative national fraternity. It has the distinction of owning all of its chapter houses. At Tech, its social events include the annual Halloween house dance, the Christmas party, the Chi Psi Formal, the annual Spring House Party, and the Birthday banquet and dance. Chi Psi is represented in Phi Kappa Phi, Tau Beta Pi, BLUE PRINT, track, cross country and track manager, departmental honorary, and campus leadership. The seniors, outstanding both on the campus and in the fraternity, include Ed Phillips, Gene Pirog, Walt Bedinger, "Doc" Sheffield, Pat Singer, Ronald Murray, Charles Fell, Leonard Gasbus, John Morris, and Charles Rowland.

After a great deal of study and research on the subject, the Delta Sigs built a Ramblin' Reck which aroused many comments during that classic contest of the jaloppies. Much work was also done on the homecoming decorations, but the results justified the labors.

Much of the social whirl of the Delta Sigs was centered around the Ansley Roof Garden, and parties were held there at the time when Brothers Kemp and Garber were furnishing the music. A number of parties and house dances completed the round of activities. Another cup was added to the collection when a Delta Sig pledge won the annual Freshman Cake Race.

Seniors leaving the fraternity this year include Ed Graf, treasurer and member of A. S. M. E.; Johnny Bozeman, from Panama; and Bob Sturgis. These boys are well known around the campus and will be missed by the school as well as by the chapter.

Under the incentive supplied by the new Delta Shelta, Delta Tau Delta had one of the most successful years it has enjoyed since it has been on the Tech campus. This success was due mainly to the seniors who will graduate this year: Dick Brinkman, Ferris Cann, John Fullenlove, Jack Horner, Nelson McCaa, Vernon Shipley, and Bill Teague. The chapter was widely represented on the staffs of all Tech publications and in all athletic managerial posts. The Delts also continued their excellent scholastic record. The Artists Ball proved again to be one of the major social functions on the campus.

Kappa Alpha, a southern fraternity for seventy-five years, derives its principles from the chivalry of long ago.

Sixty-seven chapters in twenty southern states carry on the high ideals of the Kappa Alpha Order.

The primary idea of K. A. fraternity life is four years of good fellowship which in later life may be recalled with pleasant memories.

The Alpha Sigma chapter was established on the Tech campus in 1899 and since that time has repeatedly been among the leaders in all types of the various fraternal activities.

The Kappa Alpha social season, always one of the best, was highly successful throughout the year. The principle social events included numerous house dances, a week-end house party in the mountains of North Georgia, and, as a climax, the annual Yachting Ball.

Equaling Kappa Sigma’s reputation as one of the outstanding National Fraternities, the Tech chapter is among the foremost fraternities on the campus.

Among the graduating seniors are Hugh Burnes, student in Textile Engineering and member of Phi Psi; Sam Lewis, outstanding student in Mechanical Engineering; Billy Smith, Industrial Management student and President of the Bulldog Club.

Kappa Sigs have won a high standing in all intramural sports and contests.

Among the ranking social activities of the year were the annual Christmas Tree Party, hay rides, and numerous house dances during the year. Although these affairs were splendid, the highlight of Kappa Sig’s entertainments was the Spring Formal.

To celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Georgia Tech Chapter, Phi Epsilon Pi opened the formal season with its brilliant birthday ball at Englewood Country Club. Some of the highlights of the football season were the Phi Ep's "Ramblin' Wreck" and homecoming exhibits, as well as the informal open-houses following the football games. We are sorry to lose by graduation six outstanding members this year. They are Louis Bodenheimer, Richard Gibian, John Pfeifer, Richard Herzog, Carl Reisman, and Phillip Solomons.

Phi Gamma Delta will lose three prominent seniors through graduation this spring. They are Chris Kurtle, fraternity leader and treasurer of Yellow Jacket Club; Stan Elam, captain of the Tech Band; and Charles Perkins.

The Fi-Jis have entered strong teams this year in interfraternity athletics and have also been prominent in other campus activities. Our contribution to Tech's social life has been our annual Formal Dance and many enjoyable house dances.

Pi Kappa Alpha is a national fraternity founded in the South during the days of the Confederacy. The Tech chapter is known the campus over for its friendliness and hospitality. Major honoraries in which we are represented are Tau Beta Pi, Phi Eta Sigma, Bliaeerean Society, and the Student Council. Outstanding positions held by Pikas include presidents of the Student Council, Oil Can Club, Pi Delta Epsilon, the Freshman Class, and Commander in the Naval R. O. T. C. Besides the numerous house dances, the annual Black and White Ball, the Founders Day banquet, the annual 'possum hunt, and the week-end house party rounded out our social season. Sigma Alpha Epsilon was founded at the University of Alabama on March 9, 1856. Since this time it has expanded to one hundred and thirteen chapters and over fifty thousand members. On March 8, 1890, the Georgia Phi chapter was established on the Tech campus being the second national fraternity here at that time. This past year was one of the most successful years enjoyed by the fraternity. We initiated the largest pledge class in our history, won first place in the annual Rambling Wreck contest, and, overshadowing all else, we moved into the new SAE house. The Auburn Knights played at the Christmas Formal which proved to be one of the better social occasions of the year.

At the beginning of the school year, Beta Psi of Sigma Chi moved into its larger and remodeled house at 717 Spring Street. After a very successful rushing season, the chapter made plans for many activities. An open house was held in honor of the alumni; then there was the Christmas party. The big dance of the year was held on March 14. There were numerous smaller functions throughout the year. We have raised our fraternity scholastic standing from 19th to 6th. Sigma Chi boasts of its outstanding men. Dyke and Oliver are our football members, but "Pluto" is better known as the star pitcher on the baseball team. Schulze holds most of the scholarship trophies and is a member of many of the societies at Tech. MacMoreland in Military and a flock of future admirals and aviators round out this year's chapter.

Tau Epsilon Phi has concluded the first year in its new home with the largest group of actives and pledges in its history. Prospects for future years look exceedingly bright as only two seniors are lost by graduation. We will miss, however, Dick Cohn, honor student and member of Tau Beta Pi and Omicron Delta Kappa, and Meyer Brick, whose attainments on the interfraternity athletic field have endeared him to the other members. The sixteenth annual Southern Conclave of Tau Epsilon Phi was held in November and was one of the outstanding events on the Tech social calendar. In addition, a series of house dances helped to provide a very enjoyable social year.
