Tech Greek Spring Elections Highlight Fraternity Week

By LEE BAYLIN

Technique Staff Writer

Spring elections seem to be the main activities around Fraternity houses this week.

The PHI EPs elected new officers this week, choosing Stanley Cohen, secretary; Don Schwartz, vice-president; and Bob Brochner, recording secretary; and Allan Scher, corresponding secretary. The PHI EPs will have a party this weekend at the house for Nick Shalome.

PHI KAPPA TAU also held elections recently, choosing Tom Hendricks, president; Tom Lemmond, vice-president; Charlie George, treasurer; and Bob Molper, secretary.

PI KAPPA PHI has started rush activities early this year, by holding two rush parties last weekend. Friday night at a Western party was held at the house, followed by a record party, Saturday night. The PIKEs held elections recently, choosing Tom Robinson, president; and Frank Browning, secretary.

The result? "College Standards," the Lettermen's newest Capitol album. There's romance written all over every song, from Fraternity Row's "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" to Broadway's "The Party's Over!"

Look for "College Standards" on Capitol...and be sure to look for the Lettermen in concert on your campus.

The Lettermen bring their fresh and imaginative sound to twelve great songs that deserve to be sung.

SL&EC Seeks Members; Applications Due April 17

The Student Lecture and Entertainment Committee will hold interviews for prospective members on Sunday, April 21, 2-5 PM. Applicants must be at least rising sophomores with a minimum 2.0 point average.

The committee is to provide entertainment for Tech students.

New Publication Leaders

With the election of new editors and business managers of the four campus publications last week, the old order begins changing, preparing for transition to the new.

Publications at Georgia Tech make severe demands on their staff members, particularly when those demands are far removed from academic pursuits. Only those students who are willing and able to organize their time and activities stay on Tech's "journalism" staffs for any length of time. Those students who are chosen to take the two highest positions on publications have shown that they have been willing and that they are able.

To Larry Tucker and Al Price, Jack Robinson and Boyle Duft, Earl Roberts and Tom Tuttle, and to our own Guinn Leverett and Steve Perry, we extend hearty congratulations. We feel that Tech's publications will continue to improve under their leadership.

Election Responsibility

Next Tuesday the Student Council campaign begins. Amidst the hundreds of post­ers, campaign cards, visits and phone calls, the student body will be seeing and receiving from the seventy-three candidates, one may find it difficult to give each individual candidate an honest appraisal.

These men will comprise your Student Government for the next nine months, therefore, it is vitally necessary that Tech would-be representative undergo serious evaluation. We need men to take up the initiative and challenge the Council of the past two years, men who are dedicated to Tech and to Student Government, not men dedicated to themselves.

Any election is filled with its share of emotion, but do not allow this emotion sway you from a rational selection of representation.

Probably the most difficult trait to determine in a candidate is genuine sincerity. It is an accomplished skill of the politician to be "sincere" during a campaign. Anyone can make promises and appear sincere. However, when the occasion arises, only genuine sincerity—coupled with intelligence, initiative, and stamina—gets the job done.

When a campaigner comes by asking you for his vote, do not let him get away with the general campaign doubletalk. Instead, make him commit himself on issues of interest to you and the student body in general. If a man cannot make up his mind on an issue, is he really interested in campus life? How will his indecision be of any benefit once he is elected?

Another Job Well Done

The Student Council's Finance Committee this week received approval from the administration. The Committee, representing the student body, had been working toward the establishment of a fee for student activities. This fee has been generated from the admissions fee which the students pay when enrolling in the university each year. The Student Council would like to other campus organizations to adopt a similar method of allocating the fee among them.

Disagreements in Red Empire May Not Help Western World

By FRANK ADAMS

One of the most encouraging political schemes to present itself in modern times is that involving the apparent disintegration between the communist forces of Russia and Red China. Such great enthusiasm is, perhaps, unwarranted. In our attempts to magnify the faults of the communist system, we show the tendency of exaggerating that which is not necessarily a unique feature of the communist powers.

Take a look at our own country. Americans are theoretically united by a sense of accepting majority opinion. Yet, we must shamefully look at the situation of the integration crisis which consistently produces breaks in American unity. One can further look at the failure in agreeing on the exact rules of free enterprise or the precise limits of socialism.

On a broader extent one can examine the disruption created in the Western camp as the many votes were cast even reach an agreement as to which weapons should be used in creating a strong common defense. Exemplification is suggested by the discrimination in the formation of the Common Market. Consider the fractures created by such instances as Western diversity in deciding upon an effective plan for improving the Suez Crisis of 1956.

The threat of schism does not haunt only the communist powers. The divergence of policies between the communist giants represents only a division in reference to the best methods of crystallizing the dreams of Marx. Red China proclaims that domination through the efforts of world-scale war is the most expedient method, while Russia proposes the gradual infiltration as the surest means.

This gap involves only the problem of bringing about the communist dominated world. It does not concern a disagreement in the gaol of the Communist doctrine. The more numerous Western divergences involve elements of a colder realm.

The Communist schism is certainly an important one. The Russian leader has indicated this by his attempts to confer with Chinese leaders on matters of mutual concern. We must realize, however, that we cannot place great trust in the situation in greatly weakening the two powers for we face the threat. The most effective method is in eliminating our deficiencies, not in exaggerating theirs.

A Return to Pantheism

By Guinn Leverett

I have been impressed by the sophomoric treatment with which Bruce Fitzgerald on the opposite page, I shall unveil the latest communications from the still at Delphi, Georgia (a suburb of Thetilus.)

What this country needs is a good 5 cent god, and not one but lots. We have to have our grass roots return to pantheism. To accomplish this, we need, of course, more up-to-date gods, gods that can be accepted by college youth.

The supreme god can be Avaricious, complete with a heart of gold. Can't you see him now, standing atop Mt. Suburbius, hurling great bolts of greenbacks with handfuls of change that turn men into pigs. Surely, a more terrible god never existed.

His right hand messenger will be Ferarrius, who dashes madly around the heavens in his chariot, Berlin­etta, Avaricious' wife, Sexia, the envy of every sorority girl and the object of every fraternity man, lounces round most of the day doing nothing but being beautiful and starting rumors.

Sexia's mother, Stout Matronis, is the cause of much conflict on Suburbius because she pours in leaving Angry Manius' bike in the driveway for Ferarrius to run over.

Anry Manius is the son of Avaricus and a Sea Nymph named Sexia. The god of war turns out to be twins, Communius and Capitalius, neither of which seems to be differentiable. The god of al­cohol and gaiety, is Jackus Blackus, while the supreme god can be accepted by col­lege youth.

Student Meet Needed; Harrison Should Speak

We are now well into spring quarter, and the per­sonal year is nearing its end for each Tech student. And yet, for this year the student body has had no opportunity to meet with President Harrison in an All-Student Meet.

Such meetings have been very successful in the past. They have resulted in better understanding between the students, the admin­istration, and the student council.

Such a meeting would be useful because it would provide an opportunity for the stu­dents and administration to exchange ideas. It would give the student body the chance to ask President Harrison questions, as well as to air their grievances to the "hill."

These meetings also help stimulate in­terest in campus affairs. They help to dis­pel the popular notion that the administra­tion doesn't care about the students. By doing this they eliminate a desire among the students to do something about conditions that bother them, rather than merely grip­ping about them.

It is the Student Council's responsibility to suggest such meetings, and so far the initiative has not been taken. While it is true that President Harrison is a busy man, it seems likely that he could set aside a cer­tain amount of time for a meeting with the students. The Student Council still has time to call for such a meeting before it leaves office.

If it doesn't, the new council should push for this meeting as its first item of business. Such meetings are not just bull sessions or gripe sessions. Rather, they offer an op­portunity for communication between stu­dents and faculty that is available to this campus in no other way.
Old Grandpa Abe Escapes Description; Philosophically, He Nose Everything

By YOUNG ABE

I have a feeling that he was trying to tell me something, but I haven’t been able to figure it out.

Now you take the time he decided to find out if I had been properly instructed about sex. "So, he says to me ‘has anyone told you about the birds and the bees?’"

"Yeah, I said. "Well, I can’t tell you. What do birds and bees have to do with sex?"

Then he proceeded to lecture me, with a red face, about sex.

"Grandpa," I asked him, "why did you tell me about sex?"

"Don’t," he says "one of the bad things about this world and society is that it seems like nobody talks straight about things that are really important, at least they don’t talk straight about young people. Besides, I hate to see you walking around knowing just enough to get into trouble and not enough to know what you’re doing."

It’s a good thing my Grandpa Abe wasn’t in politics.

Berlin, represents the economic prosperity of this great city—a prosperity begun by the US with the Marshall Plan and fully realised by the German 'Wirtschaftswunder.' America has done a lot for the city. The Congress Hall, Free University, new libraries, and a new modern hospital are just a few of the things resulting from our direct financial aid. A really unique relationship exists between our troops and the Berliners. Since the life-saving air lift in 1948-49, we have been regarded as the guardians of their freedom and not as occupational forces. This city has rebuilt itself from complete destruction. It's economic prosperity is also a result of the successful 'free market' system in West Germany, which is practically the opposite of the communist planned economy.

And communism has failed in the Soviet zone. East Berlin is the economic antithesis of West. The people there, as I discovered by talking to them, are downcast, pessimistic, in want of necessities, and are suffering under the terror of a dictator comparable with Hitler and Stalin. Their food is rationed, (five eggs for three people per week.) They haven't rebuilt their city very much, a large part being still in ruins. Worst of all, they are separated from family and friends by the Wall, which denies them the possibility of escape to freedom. It also makes impossible the first hand comparison of the two vying systems.

West Berlin had served as the glittering showcase for the East Germans who came to compare. It had been assumed that an average of 2000 East German youth visited West Berlin on a normal weekend. The number of East Germans who happened to be in West Berlin visiting on August 13, and who decided not to go back, turned out to be an astounding 26,000!

The desire for reunification of Germany is deeply rooted and must be given the possibility of hope. The Bonn Government rightfully claims it is the only legitimate government for the whole German people, also of those in the zone. Recognition of any kind, even implied recognition through the signing of treaties in which the Ulbricht regime is a partner, would be a betrayal of the German people in West and East, and would solidify the Russian position.

During two trips to Berlin, the last of which I've just completed, I've had an opportunity to observe closely the conditions in that beleaguered city. What I saw, heard, and learned is fact; the conclusions I draw are my personal opinion. They coincide generally with the conclusions of the other students in the group.

First, I have a suggestion for anyone who has the opportunity to visit Berlin. Don't fly into Berlin. That's the easy way! Drive over one of the three autobahns connecting Berlin with West Germany. By doing so, you'll have to fill out numerous papers for a visa from the DDR (Deutsche Demokratische Republik — the Soviet-occupied zone), you'll have to wait for hours on the border, and you might have to submit yourself to a thorough search of your car and luggage. At this point consider the dangers of the separate peace talks going on between Russia and the DDR. It would enable the Ulbricht regime to impose its will in this international traffic, which must be maintained to support Berlin and which must be guaranteed by the Western Allies. West Berlin must be seen to be believed. The magnificent Kur- walles.

Jackets Down Florida 72-68; Dean, Paschal Spark Harriers

Coach Dean's seriously undermanned track team sprinted to a 72-68 victory over Florida last Saturday. The cold, soggy day witnessed the first dual meet to be won by Tech since 1961.

Outstanding in the meet was Allen Dean, who amassed a total of seventeen team points. In addition to winning the high jump, he tied Owen Allen for first in the pole vault. He then went on to place second in the hop, step and jump, broad jump, and shot put.

Equally impressive was team Captain Evans' time of 4:40.9 in the mile which netted him a first place. Sophomore Bill Paschal heaved the shot 42 feet 2 inches and followed by tossing the discus 127 feet. Ken Kirk won the javelin throw with a toss of 180 feet 2 inches. All told, Tech had 7 first places and 10 second to Florida's 8 firsts and 5 seconds.

Also notably is the victory by Florida's George Leach in the so-called 100 yard dash. So-called because it was actually 100 yards long, and notable because Leach ran it in 10.4.

Old Problem Needs Solution at Once
BY PHILIP LEE
Sports Editor

Having no burning desire to write on anything new, have selected a subject from last quarter to discuss. Since am new to this job all of my suggestions should be taken with a grain of salt. I shall as a matter of policy welcome any and all suggestions having to do with any phase of sports.

We sent a good basketball team to play at Vanderbilt this year, but it did not win. Why? Perhaps the margin of victory was supplied to Vanderbilt by the student harassment of our players. The Vanderbilt student body has developed this "art" to a degree that few other student bodies can beat but thankfully we are not too far behind. We have run but one game at Vanderbilt in 10 years.

If other student bodies match Vanderbilt's we can lock forward to the day when (except for rare occasions) we win 11 our games at home and lose all of the away games. Won't basketball be exciting then . . .

* * *

When we have a team representing us in an intercollegiate game and we jeer our opponents, we are playing the same game that we gave agreed our team should play. In effect we break a contract which says that our team should represent us.

We play the game as surely as if we were on the floor in person; the difference is that we cannot trip our opponent or hit his arm. Oh well, we can't have everything. Contracts were made to be broken anyway, weren't they?

* * *

I have what I think to be an effective, if somewhat drastic, solution. However, lack of space and decorum forbid presentation at this time . . . perhaps next week.
