The Armed Forces Chemical Association, a youthful organization on the Tech campus, was established in 1957 by the Chemical unit of the Army ROTC, which advises and sponsors the association. The Association is almost entirely composed of cadets in the Chemical Battalion.

The Association, being a well-established and efficient organization, gives its members the opportunity to engage in fellowship and social functions with one another. Throughout the year the Association also holds several social functions.

Members are kept aware of pertinent current events, especially of the many new, interesting developments made by civilian and military scientists in the field of chemical warfare, through well-planned meetings given by the Armed Forces Chemical Association.
Physics Club

THE PHYSICS CLUB, though sponsored by the Physics Department, places no restrictions on membership because all Tech students are exposed to the field of physics. The object of the organization is to provide interested students with a channel through which they can further their study of physics, to develop their interest and to give a supplement to their classroom work.

The agenda of the Physics Club is designed to give the members an insight into many of the phases of science and to give a basic knowledge of the practical application of physics. In order to adequately supply this purpose the Club sponsors a series of informative lectures, films designed to portray the principles of physics graphically, and several interesting field trips. The Club experienced a stimulating program this season.

DICK JONES, President
The Georgia Tech student chapter of the Society for Advancement of Management, known on the Tech campus as SAM, is the largest organization on the campus and stands number one in the nation for membership.

The student chapter at Georgia Tech was first a departmental society in the Industrial Engineering School, but has since opened its membership to the other departments. The members feel that representation from all of the engineering fields provides a more complete understanding of the complexity of modern management problems.

This year saw the continued activity of SAM in school activities, which were highlighted last year by the sponsoring of a management conference; the establishment of a monthly newspaper for members; and the organization of the Student-Faculty Relations Committee.

The major objective of the Society of American Military Engineers is the bringing together of all Georgia Tech students who are interested in the field of modern military engineering and the clear necessity for our country's remaining well prepared and up-to-date in that highly important field. The organization, open to all interested Georgia Tech students, offers a highly interesting, informative, and varied agenda of speakers and field trips related to the fields of military engineering and modern warfare.

On the social side, the Society offers to its members an impressive dance and banquet once a year, as well as an invitation to the large number of social functions held by the local chapter of its parent institution, which is well established as a nationally known organization.

General Activities
ALPHA PHI OMEGA is a national service fraternity founded in 1925. The Gamma Zeta Chapter here at Georgia Tech has been active for twenty-one years. Its purpose is “to assemble college men in the fellowship of the scout oath and law, to develop friendship, and to promote service to humanity.” Membership is open to all students who have participated in the scouting movement in the past.

To achieve the purpose of the organization the Gamma Zeta Chapter sponsors many service projects. Among these are the annual “Ugliest Man on Campus” contest, the proceeds of which go to charity and supervising the polls for all campus elections. In addition to these activities, the Chapter is working with the Student Council on plans for a bulletin board to be placed on the “Hill” for posting information of general student interest.
The Circle K Club was organized on the Tech campus in 1950 by its parent organization, the Northside Kiwanis Club of Atlanta. An affiliate of Kiwanis International, the club at Tech was the sixteenth one organized. Since its organization, the club has increased so in popularity that it now holds a top spot among Tech's service organizations.

Among the Club's many service projects are: assistance in Georgia Tech Parents Weekend serving as guides for the campus guests, assistance at the Atlanta Boys Club, and helping the Northside Club in several of its undertakings. This year the Tech Club was instrumental in organizing a Georgia District of Circle K Clubs. With an eye to the future, Circle K hopes to further its horizons in service work and draw more members into the club.

The Georgia Tech Band, under the direction of Mr. Ben L. Sisk, has the important job of representing Tech both at home and away on other college campuses. The band played at half-time during football games with color provided by twirling Tech co-eds and by selected majorettes from local high schools.

During the winter quarter, the band played at basketball games held in the Alexander Memorial Coliseum. Its music added to the powerful atmosphere generated by Tech's championship team. During the spring quarter the band held its annual spring concert.

The technical curriculum of Tech's band members leaves little free time, but they all manage to find the time to meet three times a week for practice. This itself is a tribute to the interest of the band members.
DURING WINTER QUARTER, BAND CONTINUES CONTRIBUTING TO SCHOOL SPIRIT BY PLAYING AT BASKETBALL GAMES.

THE BULLDOG CLUB is composed of outstanding members of the junior and senior classes selected to represent the various organizations of which they are a member and which take part in intramurals.

The main purpose of the Bulldog Club is to promote, organize, and officiate at intramural athletic events. The club works closely with the Athletic Association on rules and intramural schedules. The club awards a trophy to the highest scoring man in intramural football.

Other Bulldog functions come during Homecoming Weekend. They supervise the Homecoming displays and the “Ramblin’ Reck” judging, the choosing of the Homecoming Queen, and the Homecoming Dance. They also officiate at the Freshman Cake Race, and provide color with the Bullpups in their white trousers, red shirts, tux coats, and derbies.

The club is active in intramurals, giving medals for the winners in the softball league and the ping-pong, chess, and tennis tourna-

Drama Tech offers training in acting, producing, directing, or any of the many other aspects of theatrical work for those students who are interested in the theater. Drama Tech provides the aspiring Thespian with a suitable means for developing and exercising his talents. For the time a student devotes to the organization, he may receive academics credit from the English Department.

This year Drama Tech has worked under the added burden of not having a "home." Crenshaw Field House, the club's theater for many years, was condemned this year, forcing the members to look elsewhere for a place to perform. The "Y" was used for a lively performance of Androcles and the Lion and the Theater Atlanta was rented for the production of George Vidal's Visit to a Small Planet. By 1961, however, a new building will be built to replace Crenshaw.

THE GEORGIA TECH GLEE CLUB has carried Tech’s name to millions of people. It has been seen and heard on the Ed Sullivan Show and in Iceland, Greenland, and in parts of Europe. In addition the Glee Club has visited other colleges and universities across the United States besides entertaining various conventions coming to Atlanta and at various colleges and social functions in and around Atlanta. Last year the Glee Club received a plaque from the National Interfraternity Council in recognition of its performance at the National IFC convention held here in Atlanta that year.

In addition to these performances the Tech Glee Club also gives several campus concerts for the pleasure of the Tech students. The Glee Club, 40 voices strong, has a repertoire ranging from classical to light comedy numbers.

THE PURPOSE of the Student American Marketing Association Club (SAMAC) is to promote friendly relations between students and faculty members who are interested in the field of marketing. It is also designed to encourage the development of scientific study and research in the field of marketing.

SAMAC is sponsored by the Atlanta Chapter of the AMA and is supported and sanctioned by the School of Industrial Management. Any student who has attained sophomore standing is eligible for active membership. Engineering students who are interested in Sales Engineering are invited to join the club as valuable information and knowledge can be attained through participation in the club’s activities.

Activities of SAMAC include visits to marketing firms, research projects, and marketing conferences.

Pan American Union Club

The Pan American Union Club of Georgia Tech was founded in 1956. The club is based on Pan American ideals, and its objectives include better human relations among its members as well as a cultural exchange of pertinent ideas.

The Pan American Club is interested in the athletic, social, and cultural development of its members. In order to achieve this aim the club sponsors outstanding intramural teams, several dances, and lectures by noted guests. The lecturers emphasize possible solutions to the economic and social problems of the Americas and ways in which international relations might be improved.

Recent dictatorial upsets in the Americas, especially the Cuban situation, are of current interest to the members and are discussed enthusiastically.
The Radio Club is an organization composed primarily of licensed radio amateurs, although membership is open to anyone interested in amateur radio. The club’s “ham” station, W4AGL, is located in the penthouse atop the physics building. It is available to licensed members and boasts an array of modern equipment. With the high-powered transmitters, they can reach around the world on all amateur short-wave bands. Activities center around this station, including “chewing the rag” with other amateur stations all over the world, handling messages for members and other students, and helping prospective “hams” learn enough to obtain their own government license.

The new Electrical Engineering building which is now under construction will be welcomed by the members as it includes plans for a new radio shack and new equipment.

THE RAMBLIN' RECK CLUB'S feature activity is to be in charge of all pep rallies and to foster school spirit. This organization is composed of outstanding members of almost every organization on the campus who have shown a desire to help improve the Tech spirit. Through the diligent effort and leadership of these members each Freshman class learns many of the traditions of Georgia Tech and is inducted into the spirit of our school.

Weekly pep rallies are held before each football game highlighted this year by the “Beat Duke” bonfire before the Homecoming game. These rallies are often spiced by the appearance of guest personalities. During the Homecoming weekend the Club also sponsors the “Ramblin’ Reck Parade” and the Freshman cake race. Later in the year the Club also sponsors the annual Stunt Night.
Saint Patrick's Council

The Saint Patrick's Council was organized on the Georgia Tech campus in 1950. The purpose of the organization is to promote the welfare of Georgia Tech and the various honorary and professional societies from the several schools of Tech. The principle function of the council is the planning, promoting, and coordinating of Engineer's Week. During this week the council entertains a group of outstanding high school students selected by local chapters of the Georgia Society of Professional Engineers. These students are selected on the basis of the ability and interest they have shown in the field of engineering.

This year the Saint Patrick's Council is planning to have an even more successful Engineer's Week than the one it sponsored during Spring Quarter last year.

THE OBJECT of the Georgia Tech Student Lecture and Entertainment committee is to present to students of Tech an outstanding program of entertainment for their benefit.

During the fall quarter the school was in a furor over The Kingston Trio which appeared at the Homecoming Concert sponsored by the Committee. The show was a sell-out in the Alexander Memorial Coliseum. In the winter quarter the Committee presented Shakespeare's play "Macbeth." The Atlanta Symphony Woodwind Quintet was brought to the campus to headline the spring quarter's entertainment. In addition to these performances a number of talks of both technical and philosophical nature were presented along with a number of foreign and American films. Students are admitted free to all committee-sponsored programs.
The Georgia Tech Veterans Club is in its fifth year on the Tech campus. The club was organized by Korean Veterans, but membership is open to any veteran enrolled at Tech. The main objective is to assist veterans in their adjustment from service to campus life.

Meetings are held every other week throughout the year with outstanding speakers and entertaining movies featured for the pleasure and relaxation of the members. The club

THE WOMEN STUDENT'S ASSOCIATION was organized on the Georgia Tech campus in 1957. The membership consists of all undergraduate women students and of graduate students, referred to as associate members. The purpose of the association is to promote the general welfare of women students, to coordinate the activities of the women students, and to establish and maintain the finest standards of character and conduct.

The chief activity of the group this year has been the drawing up of a set of rules to govern the conduct of women students. The members helped with the World Student Fund collection and held various social functions throughout the year.

The association was organized as a benefit to the women students of Georgia Tech and to perform a service to the school and its entire student body.

THE "T" CLUB is a relatively new organization on the Tech campus. Coach Bobby Dodd is to be credited with its existence and success. The purpose of the "T" Club is to promote interest and good will among athletes and to promote interest and encourage participation in the various campus activities; to welcome and purport good relationships with all prospective athletes and instill in them the spirit of Georgia Tech; to correct any friction that may develop between athletes; and to promote fellowship among athletes, the coaching staff, the faculty, the student body, and the alumni of Georgia Tech.

Varsity lettermen of all school sports are welcome to join and are encouraged to participate in the Club's activities. These activities include the yearly "T" Club dance and selling tickets for the annual "T" Club game.

THE BAPTIST STUDENT UNION seeks to minister to the varied needs of the large number of Baptist students on the Georgia Tech campus. The primary emphasis is that of meeting the spiritual needs of the students through active participation in the educational and worship programs of the churches and the Baptist Student Center on the campus. The Baptist Student Center is the meeting place for vespers programs, prayer meets, and Bible discussion groups, all of which are designed to assist the students to become more spiritually mature. The B. S. U. program also features a variety of social and recreational activities. Many of these are planned in conjunction with the students from the girls' schools in the Atlanta area.

The program of the B. S. U. is planned by an Executive Council, various committees, and a Freshman Council, all of these making up the Greater B. S. U. Council.

THE GEORGIA TECH EPISCOPAL COLLEGE PROGRAM is a student organization which is sponsored by the Episcopal Church in order to bring Georgia Tech Episcopal students more fully into the life of their Church.

Tech students meet jointly with Agnes Scott students in their new College Center at the All Saints' Church to participate in a Sunday evening program including supper, discussion groups, worship, and social and recreational activities. Other activities include houseparties, study groups, and various social and religious programs which are held frequently throughout the year.

The new Episcopal College Center provides an air-conditioned study room, a hi-fi room, an activities room, a snack bar, discussion rooms, and the college chaplain's office. Here every night of the week students gather to study, relax, bring dates, or come for a late snack.

SANTA CLAUS (Mr. Pruitt) came to the annual Christmas Party to deliver gifts to guests of honor who were children from Jolley Home.

The Christian Science Organization at Georgia Tech was established in May, 1956. Its purpose is to afford to those so desiring an opportunity to learn and apply the truths of Christian Science; to unite the Christian Scientists at Tech in closer bonds of Christian fellowship; and to co-operate with other student groups in promoting inter-religious interest.

The organization sponsors annually an open lecture on Christian Science for the student body. Weekly testimony meetings, to which all students and faculty of Tech are invited, include a lesson prepared by a member consisting of selections from the Bible and correlative passages from Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science. The latter part of these meetings is devoted to experiences, testimonies, and remarks on Christian Science.
The Lutheran Student Association at Georgia Tech is a very active religious organization. The Lutheran Student Association is a national organization with chapters on many college and university campuses. The Atlanta Chapter includes students from Georgia Tech, Agnes Scott, and Emory University. Its purpose is to unite these students in closer bonds of Lutheran fellowship and encourage them to increase their knowledge and understanding of God and their Church.

A business meeting is held once a month with a dinner and a guest speaker. An informal open house is held every week and parties are given every other month including hayrides, picnics, swimming and record parties. The members also take field trips to points of interest in Atlanta.

Members of the Lutheran Student Association attend three day week-end conferences with the Lutheran Student Associations of other campuses every year.

The Georgia Tech Chapter of the National Newman Club Federation is now in its thirty-first year as a club of Catholic culture and Catholic fellowship. The club fosters the spiritual, social, and intellectual interests of the Catholic students on campus.

Center of the club activities on campus is the Newman House. Meetings are held each Tuesday night in addition to Mass at the Y.M.C.A. on Sundays, Holy Days and First Friday Mass at the Newman House, and Mother's Day Communion and Breakfast. Other activities include corporate communions, spiritual retreats, lectures, discussion groups, dinners, dances, and picnics. The Newman Club also takes an active part in the intramural athletic program.
The Wesley Foundation is the Methodist Church at work on the campus. As a part of the National Methodist Student Movement, it seeks to provide for the spiritual, moral, and social needs of the students. It is the purpose of the Wesley Foundation to provide a program designed to create greater personal relationships with God and to continue to strengthen the ties with the church made in youth which assure full Christian maturity.

A program of varied activities are offered for the students. These include weekly Friday night programs, student conferences, intramural sports, and deputations to other colleges.

Work has now been started on the modern new building for the Wesley Foundation at Fourth and Fowler Streets.

THE WESTMINSTER FELLOWSHIP is the Presbyterian student organization at Georgia Tech. The purpose of this organization is to provide a program of activities which will unite its members in a close bond of fellowship while attempting to elevate the being and his religion. Student-led meetings are held on Friday evenings in the Presbyterian Student Center which draw Tech and Agnes Scott students from Presbyterian Churches throughout the Atlanta area. These meetings are geared to finding answers to our most basic concerns through application of the Christian message in worship and discussion periods. Recreation and a warm spirit of friendliness are offered also. In addition to the frequently scheduled social activities, the Student Center, located centrally on the campus, is available throughout the week for study, relaxation, and personal counseling for any student.

THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION is a primary center of fellowship on the campus and its services are available to any student of Georgia Tech. Many students chose to become active members by joining one or more of the groups commissioned by the Y.M.C.A. Board of Directors.

The "Y" Cabinet serves as the control center for all the activities of the Y.M.C.A. It assists in the planning and carrying out of the program of the commissioned groups and all other phases of Association activity. It is composed of elected student officers of the Association, the chief.

FRESHMEN PARTICIPATE in one of the many athletic activities at Freshman Camp sponsored by Alpha-Y-Phalanx of Georgia Tech.
FRESHMAN CAMP is the annual major project of Alpha Phalanx. The club members plan and organize the four-day briefing session for the indoctrination of entering freshmen. Leading upperclassmen, faculty members, school officials, and outstanding citizens of Atlanta give useful words of advice to the new "rats" at the camp in the Blue Ridge foothills.

In addition to Freshman Camp, Alpha Phalanx sponsors other projects as a service to fellow students. This year the club sponsored a book drive for the Asian Foundation, a Freshman Camp evaluation, and the completion of a fireplace at the Y.M.C.A. camp.

Alpha Phalanx is an integral part of the Y.M.C.A. with membership open to any interested Tech student.

The Bar Bell Club

The Bar Bell Club was established in the spring of 1955 by a group of Tech men who were interested in weight training. Since that date it has grown into a very active organization and presents an outstanding weight lifting team to Tech.

The primary purpose of the Bar Bell Club is to develop a lifting team, but it also provides a place on campus for all interested Tech men to train with weights. With this in mind the Club offers progressive training programs with facilities for the beginner and the advanced trainee in its room in the basement of the Y.M.C.A.

The members have won several titles in competition and plan to enter new contests to defend them in the future. The challenge attracts a strong breed of man.

The Executive Roundtable seeks to promote a better understanding of the responsibilities of management through application of the principles of ethical leadership. The group, which is affiliated with the Atlanta Personnel Club and the Y.M.C.A., has grown to a position of high regard on the campus since its beginning in 1956. Membership is selective, but all students at Tech are eligible.

Bi-weekly dinner meetings are held in the ODK room of the Brittain Dining Hall. In addition to a short business meeting, leaders of industry are invited to conduct roundtable discussions that aid the members in gaining a broad understanding of management and industry.
Gamma Psi is the co-ed service organization of the Y.M.C.A. It is the newest of the "Y" organizations with membership open to all co-eds.

The main project of Gamma Psi is the sponsorship of the Co-ed Freshman Camp held at Camp Highland. This camp is becoming an annual event as each year more girls attend Georgia Tech. Under the direction of Gamma Psi the new co-eds receive a good idea of what to expect at Tech. The upperclass women and faculty members hold briefing sessions at which they help orientate the freshman co-eds to Tech life.

Other activities of Gamma Psi include a Y.M.C.A. social which it sponsors each quarter to get the members of the many different "Y" groups together. In addition to this the club assists other groups wherever possible.

Recreation Council

SHELLMAN GREEN, President

THE RECREATION COUNCIL is a service organization. Though the organization participates in various activities, its primary purpose is to provide inexpensive recreation and an opportunity for Tech men and local girls to meet. For this purpose the council sponsors hayrides and Friday night Open House at the Y.M.C.A. for Tech students, Agnes Scott students, and nursing students.

This year additional work was done on the sound system in the Y auditorium to further improve the dances. Other necessary duties such as advertising the dances, providing transportation for the girls to and from the dances, and providing the refreshments are accomplished by this active group. Several social gatherings for the Rec Council members were held during the year.

Membership in the council is open to all who desire to take part and their effort is repaid by student interest.
Sigma-Y-Phalanx

Sigma Phalanx is a service and social club that is active four quarters a year. Its purpose is to unite young men in cooperative efforts to practice and extend Christian standards and ideals.

The organization maintains the Tech Y.M.C.A. Camp as one of its projects and works for the development of the 193 acres of wooded land of the campsite. It also maintains the “Travel Board” in the post office for the convenience of students seeking rides home.

Social activities of Sigma Phalanx include hayrides and parties. In addition, deputations were exchanged with a number of other colleges in the Southeast.

THE T-Book is the official hand-book of Georgia Tech. It is published annually by the T-Book Staff of the Georgia Tech YMCA and is distributed to freshmen and transfer students and faculty members. The purpose of the book is to help the new students in becoming oriented to Tech and the city of Atlanta.

The T-Book contains information about Georgia Tech and the many campus organizations. The T-Book also includes many other items especially helpful to freshmen such as a drawing of the lettered Rat Cap, Freshman Rules, the Tech Creed, the yells, and the famous school songs.

The T-Book has become a tradition on the Tech campus as it encourages freshmen to take an active part in school life and serves as a guide during his stay at Tech.
The Georgia Tech Chapter of the Toastmasters' International was the first college chapter among all the hundreds of Toastmasters' Clubs. Founded in 1950, Toastmasters has won the best exhibit at Activities Night for the past two years as evidence of its success.

Toastmasters is an educational organization, especially useful on the Tech campus as it seeks to improve the ability to speak in public through practical experience. The programs each week are planned to allow the members to deliver both planned and extemporaneous speeches, thus constantly improving their power of speech. Since it is desirable for an engineer to be a competent speaker, the Toastmasters' Club realizes much of its value in giving him the opportunity to develop his ability.
The World Student Fund aids the cause of world peace, international friendship, and professional competence by providing the opportunity for selected students from abroad to study for one year at Tech and by awarding scholarships to Tech men for study abroad. This operation is under the direction of the World Student Fund Committee and is supported by students, faculty, alumni, and interested citizens.

The work of WSF is unique: Tech is the only school in the country with such a program. This year students from Germany, Pakistan, Southern Rhodesia, Lebanon, Scotland, and Switzerland were given a chance to study in the United States by the WSF Committee. Having these students living in the dormitories and eating at fraternities creates many valuable experiences for both guests and Tech students.
