EPILOGUE

The 1961 Blue Print has presented more headaches to the staff than any of the recent publications of the same name. This year we tried to introduce some new features that would add some sparkle and diversity to the book. We eliminated mug shots from all organizations except the fraternities and the honoraries. Our idea was that in the future when you look at the book it would mean a lot more to you than a bunch of mug shots. We left them in fraternities because of the number of pages they have to put activities shots on; we did however greatly reduce their size in order to get more activity shots on. They also remained in honoraries because we felt that the honor received justified them. We also tried to add some humor and vitality to the copy, especially in the fraternities. The layout of the book has been changed from a seasonal basis to a functional basis to conform with good yearbook design. Our major objective this year has been to provide you with a yearbook that will, five to ten years from now when you look at it, make you reminisce over the pleasant years you have spent here.

I as the editor am deeply indebted to many people for this book. To Shawn Boles who stepped in when the horizon was the haziest and saved the organizations section from disaster. To Rae Mellichamp who I could always depend on to get his work done the quickest, and who was there to do the extra work I gave him (complaining all the time, but doing it, nevertheless, with skill and precision). To Ed Joy who drove the fraternities insane with persistent requests for "good" activity pictures. To Beverly Cover for her supreme efforts in trying to add life to the copy. To Claude Lowery who I could always depend on (at least until he fell in love). To Bob Bland, Bernie Wenke, Jack Parker, Ken Walend, Bill Diehl, and Billy Williams who patiently put up with my fluctuating photographic demands. To Fred Donovan in to whose hands I hand this job. To Bond Almand for keeping the books straight and the publication soluble. And to countless others too numerous to name.

Time Precious?

It always is . . . and as the years go by you'll discover that it becomes more precious every day.

In carrying out your program of future financial security, time is one of the most important factors. And that's where life insurance can take over a big risk. It's the only form of savings that complete your financial planning should you not live . . . or guarantee you an income the rest of your life if you do.

Speaking of time, shouldn't you do something about your financial planning today, while you're still insurable?
