Homecoming For Next Weekend

Seniors Designs Naval Instruments

Not out of college, yet a veteran engineer, Wilmer H. Kimberly, Jr., a member of Tech's electrical engineering senior class, and another talented member of the Samoa Society Control Unit now in use in Jacksonville, Florida.

Since the airplane's purpose is to provide a flying use of radar to the military, it is necessary to duplicate conditions that would normally exist in standard military aircraft.

Assignment

The R4D-25 did not have operations in the U.S. Navy boys, so Kimberly, early in his summer training period, was assigned to designing the necessary control unit.

Over the supervision of the Electronics and Equipment Engineering Division of the Station's Operations and Repair Department, Kimberly worked out all of the engineering details incidental to the installation.

Satisfactory Design

Although an examination could not be readied for flight before Kimberly returned to school, every indication was that the design was to be used for practical applications, and will be used for other similar training applications.

Cross Country Runners Lose Meet to Alabama

By Ray Savage

The Georgia Tech runners opened the 1952 cross country season with the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa Monday. The weather on opening day in several years, Bama's Berg and Cancello raced against BG Magefield, is running this season at Tech and will be competing against his alma mater Friday afternoon. Jack stated, "There's no team that I would rather beat than my alma mater." The meet should prove to be a very exciting one.

Tennessee Next

The Tech varsity meets the University of Tennessee next. This meet will be one of the many homecoming festivities to take place at Tech on Saturday morning, October 25. According to Coach Griffin, Tennessee has lost the majority of their better runners. Al Humm, the Swede star, has returned to Sweden and John Trent graduated last June. The only one left of the mighty trio is Frankie Albertson. Coach Griffin stated that even with the loss of these star runners, Tennessee would be a very difficult team. Last season Tennessee swamped Tech by a score of 15-50. The Tech runners all state that they are determined to make it a closer meet this season. According to the coach, this must should prove to be a great battle, no everybody is urged to come on out and cheer the Tech men to victory over the Volunteers.

Tigers Invade Yellow Jacket Nest; One of South's Great Tradition Tiltls

By Karl Frankel

Auburn's Tigers have been knocked around the Southeastern Conference during the last few years, but this year the tradition has changed and Auburn has come up with an above average football eleven. The Tiger-Jacket clash is one of the South's great traditional games. Tech has stung the Tigers in their last ten meetings, but the series, which started way back in 1892, is a very close one. Tech holds the upper hand with 22 wins against 24 defeats, and three ties that have resulted in ties.

Auburn Loses Two

Auburn has lost two of their three games played this year, but they have encountered some very stiff opposition. Against Ole Miss the Tigers ended up on the short end of a 22-7 score. A strong Maryland team was almost upset by the Plainsmen, but the Terps came back to win 15-7 after being behind 7-0. Last week Wofford was trounced by Auburn, 54-7.

Tiger-Jacket clash. The old reliable, Leon Harde man, will be in at one halfback slot while Larry Ruffin will man the other side. Between those two backs will be Glenn Turner, Jacket fullback. Coach Lewis Woodruff's defensive backs are all ready and aching to latch on to the aerials attempted by Auburn's Spence. Tech's backs allowed Tulane but five completions in last week's 14-0 win.

Roger Frey, standout defensive tackle, twisted his knee during Wednesday's practice session and will be a doubtful starter Saturday afternoon. Line coach Ray Graves has selected Ed "Bulldog" Carothers as Frey's replacement should the latter still be ailing when game time rolls around.
