After going through the growing phase of relying on the play of four freshman in 2004-05, this season the Georgia Tech men’s tennis team returns an experienced group as it enters the 2006 season. This year’s squad will feature one senior, one junior, and four sophomores, each of whom played in significant matches a year ago with the goal in mind of obtaining a bid into the NCAA Tournament for the sixth consecutive year and advancing to the second round for the first time since the 2001 season.

“I believe we have one of the best young teams in the country and the talent to really make an impact,” said head coach Kenny Thorne, who begins his ninth season at the helm of the Yellow Jackets. “I think we are solid all the way through the lineup and that we have the experience. Last year, we had the talent but not necessarily the experience and jumping into the season should not be as tough this year. It’s a fun team to coach and I’m excited to see some of our guys step up and play at the level I know they are capable of playing.”

For the past two months, the team’s participants in five events and many players had strong showings during that time.

One player who has shown great improvements over his career at Tech has been the lone senior of the class, Marko Rajevac. The Yugoslavian native is one of two returning All-Americans for the Jackets after leading the team in singles dual match wins with 15 during his junior campaign. He also competed in the NCAA Doubles Championships where he and teammate David North earned All-America honors by advancing to the quarterfinals before falling to eventual national champions John Isner and Antonio Ruiz of Georgia. Rajevac recorded a 7-1 record in three-set matches during the 2004-05 season, the best of anyone on the team, and had a 5-5 record in ACC play. He posted a 2-5 record in singles action during the fall and teamed with North to win the consolation draw of the Polo Ralph Lauren ITA All-Americans. The duo also advanced to the Round of 16 at the ITA Mideast Regional before falling 9-7 to a team from Old Dominion.

“Marko has been one of our most improved players in the past year,” Thorne said. “He wins a lot of big points, and although he didn’t have the best fall, he was only a couple of points away from having a great fall. He’s doing a lot of things right and I think he’s on track to keep improving. Marko has also worked very hard on the mental aspect of his game and it was great to see him become an All-American last season.”

Tech’s other upper classman is junior Zachary Rath, a native of Montreal, Canada. A year ago, Rath was a steady force at No. 4 singles, posting 10 victories and a 4-6 record in ACC play. Late in the season Rath also began playing No. 3 doubles with Scott Blackmon and the pair posted a 6-3 record with wins over Vanderbilt, North Carolina, and NC State. During the 2005 fall, he was one of the Jackets’ top performers with a 8-4 record in singles action. His best performance came at the Southern Intercollegiates where he advanced to the semifinals of the Main Draw before falling to Christopher Rea of Ole Miss. Rath also reached the Round of 64 at the ITA Mideast Regional before losing to No. 45 Carrin Cohen of Virginia. He and Blackmon advanced to the finals of the Southern Intercollegiates and the Georgia Tech Fall Invitational, losing to teams from Duke and Georgia, respectively.

“Zach has worked very hard on a couple of areas of his game over the past season that let him down at times last year,” Thorne stated. “I think that not only has he improved technically but he is much more confident in his game and that’s very important in tennis. He and Scott Blackmon have also really played well in doubles during the fall and will be a key to our success this season.”

One of the four sophomores competing for Tech this season is Scott Blackmon from Pensacola, Fla.

Competing primarily in doubles during his freshman year, Blackmon compiled a 8-6 record at the No. 3 doubles spot, including a 4-6 ACC record. He had four different playing partners during the dual match season, finishing the year with Zachary Rath and a 6-3 record along with a win over Vanderbilt in the NCAA tournament. Blackmon saw action in four singles matches and posted a 2-2 record in dual matches at No. 5 and 6 singles.

In the fall season this year, he posted a 4-5 record in singles play while advancing to the Round of 16 at the Crimson Tide Fall Classic and the Georgia Tech Fall Invitational. After falling in the first round of the ITA Mideast Region II Championships, he rebounded to defeat Sandeep Daya of North Carolina in straight sets. Blackmon teamed with Rath in doubles where the Tech duo had a 7-4 record. The two fell to teams from Duke and Georgia in the finals of the Southern Intercollegiates and Georgia Tech Fall Invitational. Blackmon ended his freshman season with a 10-8 record in singles and a 20-15 record in doubles.

“Scott has really improved his ground strokes and volleys, and some of the things that he’s worked on technically will improve his game dramatically,” Thorne said. “He’s got a great awareness in doubles and he and Zach are going to be important to us this year.”

Another sophomore that made an impact during his freshman campaign was Jordan Delass. A native of Marietta, Ga., Delass played both singles and doubles during the dual match season but finished the season only playing singles. He recorded a 13-8 record in singles during his freshman year, competing anywhere from the No. 4 to No. 6 spot. Delass compiled a 8-9 record at No. 5 singles, including a 4-5 record in ACC play and a perfect record (3-0) at No. 6 singles. He also recorded a straight set.
In fall action this year, Delass has compiled a 8-4 record in singles action and had his best performance at the Georgia Tech Fall Invitational and the Crimson Tide Fall Classic, where he advanced to the quarterfinals both times. He reached the Round of 32 at the ITA Mideast Regional and was Tech’s top player, falling in straight sets to No. 33 Todd Paul of Wake Forest. Delass also paired with George Gvelesiani in doubles where the pair had a 6-3 record and captured the “B” Doubles Championships at the Georgia Tech Fall Invitational. They also advanced to the semifinals of the Crimson Tide Fall Classic.

“Jordan has improved mentally and is starting to understand how good of a player he is,” Thorne commented. “He has the ability to step up and play with the top guys in the nation and the stronger he becomes, the more he will realize this.”

George Gvelesiani, a sophomore from Norcross, Ga., competed at the No. 6 singles position as a freshman and will look to be a force at one of the singles spots this year. Along with posting a 5-3 record in ACC action during his freshman year, he had wins over Vanderbilt’s Evan Dufaux, Florida State’s Chip Webb, and Clint Boling of Clemson. He competed in 13 singles matches during this fall, recording a 7-6 record and ending the season on a strong note, advancing through the ITA Mideast Region qualifying bracket before losing in the Round of 64. Gvelesiani also reached the consolation finals of the Crimson Tide Fall Classic before falling to Stephen Ward of William & Mary in straight sets. He also paired with Jordan Delass to post a 6-3 record in doubles competition along with a win in the “B” Doubles Championships at the Georgia Tech Fall Invitational.

“George is another guy that can play with anyone in the nation,” Thorne stated. “He’s worked on a couple of areas to improve his game, and although he’s struggled a bit during the fall season, he was able to turn it around and really showed what a great competitor he is.”

Tech’s other returning All-American is sophomore David North, a native of Durban, South Africa. North became the first freshman in school history to earn All-America honors when he teamed with Marko Rajevac in the 2005 NCAA Doubles Championships and advanced to the quarterfinals. He played at No.1 and No. 2 singles throughout the season, posting 11 victories in the spring and a 3-4 record against players who finished the year ranked in the year-end ITA Singles Rankings. North also compiled a 2-1 record at the No. 1 singles position, including wins over Georgia’s Antonio Ruiz and Miami’s Tim Krebs. He teamed with Marko Rajevac at No. 1 Doubles and recorded 17 wins on the season, advancing to the quarterfinals of the NCAA Doubles Championships. The pair had a 5-7 record against ranked players, including victories over teams from Utah and Tulane. This fall, North has struggled in singles play, posting a 3-5 record, but dropped four of those matches in three sets. He advanced to the Round of 64 in both the Polo Ralph Lauren ITA Qualifier and ITA Mideast Regional. In doubles play, he and Rajevac posted a 8-3 record along with the doubles title in the consolation draw of the Polo Ralph Lauren ITA All-Americans and a Round of 16 appearance in the ITA Mideast Regional.

“David was put in a tough position as a freshman because we put him at No.1 and No.2 singles,” said Thorne. “He reacted about as well anyone could, and he did have some tough losses but also came up with some good wins. David will be vying for one of the top spots again this season, and he’s been there already so he knows what it takes to play there. He’s a tough competitor and has a lot of talent, which he’s shown by becoming an All-American as a freshman.”

“I’m extremely excited about the direction in which our program is heading,” stated Thorne. “We’ve been successful in developing players, and I think we’re one recruit from being a top-five program nationally. Because of the quality base of players that we have, all it takes is one guy stepping up at the No.1 or No.2 singles position, or a freshman coming in and making an immediate impact. There’s a few guys on our team that are capable of doing that so I’m excited about our future.”

As in year’s past, the 2006 schedule for the men’s team will be challenging. That schedule will feature some of the top teams in the country, including 11 teams who participated in the 2005 NCAA Tournament.

“I think we’ve got one of the best schedules in the nation and we’ll be playing a lot of top-25 teams,” commented Thorne. “There’s no better way to improve than to play a tough schedule. We don’t have a single freshman on the team so everyone will have at least a year of experience and will know what to expect. At the beginning of every season, I get excited because I see the improvements in our players from the summer and fall and once we get into the dual match format, it seems the players are ready to work even harder.”

In addition to the already strong teams in the conference, the ACC will welcome Boston College this year after adding Miami and Virginia Tech last season.

“The ACC is becoming one of the best conferences in the nation in all sports, and tennis is no exception,” Thorne commented. “With the addition of these teams, there won’t be as many byes in the ACC tournament so more teams will have to play an extra match. You could end up playing matches four days in a row, which is like the NCAA tournament. Since the ACC had one of the best showings in the NCAA last year, the expansion is a positive and should improve the strength of the conference.”
General Info: A talented and athletic player. Possesses a strong work ethic and conditioning level. One of the hardest workers on the team. Stepped into the lineup immediately as a freshman, mainly at No. 3 Doubles. Will be looked upon to play in the singles lineup at No. 5 or No. 6 and will probably play No. 2 Doubles with Zachary Rath. Worked on improving the consistency of his serve in the fall. Also worked on his volleying and net skills during the summer and fall.

2005 Fall: Posted a 4-5 record in singles play, reaching the Round of 16 at the Crimson Tide Fall Classic and the Georgia Tech Fall Invitational. After falling in the first round of the ITA Mideast Region II Championship, rebounded to defeat Sandeep Daiya of North Carolina in straight sets. Teamed with Zachary Rath in doubles, posting a 7-4 record. Top performance came at the Southern Intercollegiates where the two fell in the finals to Duke’s team of Atas and Stokke, 8-6. Also advanced with Rath to the finals of the Georgia Tech Fall Invitational, losing to a team from Georgia in the finals.

2004-05: Mainly played doubles during the dual match season. Compiled a 8-6 record at No. 3 doubles, including a 4-6 record during ACC action. During the dual match season, he played with four different partners. Finished the year partnered with Zachary Rath and the two posted a 6-3 record at No. 3, including a victory in a tiebreaker in the NCAA Tournament against Vanderbilt. Saw action in four singles matches, recording a 2-2 record in dual matches at No. 5 and 6 singles. During the fall, he reached the finals of the doubles tournament at the Southern Intercollegiates and the Crimson Tide Fall Invitational. Ended his freshman season with a 10-8 overall record in singles and a 20-15 record in doubles.

High School/Junior Tennis: Four year letter winner at Pensacola High School in Tennis. Team captain for three years. Helped his team to the district and regional championship his freshman and sophomore years. Led his team to a third place finish in the state championships his freshman year. Was the district champion in his junior season. Named the Pensacola News Journal’s Co-Player of the Year in 2003 and Player of the Year in 2004. Received the Pensacola Sports Association Senior Scholar Athlete Overall Boys Tennis Award in 2004. Graduated 4th in his class. Received the Foundation for Excellence in Education Award in 2004. Had a 4-3 record during the spring at No. 6 singles, including a 7-5, 6-4 win over NC State’s William Nobblitt . . . Prior to the NCAA Tournament, his last singles match was a 6-2, 6-1 loss to Geoff Boyd of North Carolina on Mar. 28 at No. 6 singles.

2002-03: Was part of the Yellow Jacket singles lineup throughout the year, appearing in 13 dual matches . . . Played in the final 10 matches of the year, mainly in the Nos. 5 & 6 spots in the lineup . . . Won his final match of the season with a 6-2, 7-6 (5) decision over Aubum’s Markus Schiller in the first round of the NCAA Championship . . . Appeared as high as No. 4 in the lineup, claiming a 1-6, 7-6, 6-3 win over Maryland’s David Reichsfeld there on March 16 . . . First win of the spring came against Mercer’s Subash Patel at No. 6 by a 6-4, 6-1 count . . . In the fall, advanced to the semifinals of the Georgia Tech Invitational “B” draw with a three-set win over Tennessee’s Raul Martin by scores of 7-6 (7), 4-6, 6-4 . . . Teamed with Joao Menano in doubles for much of the spring, compiling a 6-8 record, including a 5-5 mark at the No. 2 spot in the lineup . . . The duo’s top win came in an 8-4 decision over Florida State’s Mat Cloer and Laub on April 12.

High School/Junior Tennis: Lettered for three years while at Cardinal Gibbons High School in Fort Lauderdale, Fla . . . Played at both the No. 2 and No. 3 positions in the lineup during his prep career . . . Helped lead the team to a national championship in 2000 and three state championships in 2000-02 . . . Was an all-district selection by both the Miami Herald and the Sun Sentinel following both the 2001 and 2002 seasons . . . An all-around student-athlete, Rajevac earned honor roll distinction and graduated cum laude, receiving the Latin Award.

Charged with building the Georgia Tech tennis program back to the level it was when he was a player, former Yellow Jacket standout Kenny Thorne was named to the newly-created position of Director of Tennis at his alma mater on June 30, 1998, becoming the ninth head coach in Tech men’s tennis history.

Thorne took over the reins of the Tech program after spending one season as the team’s assistant coach and wasted little time in taking steps toward his ultimate goal of turning the Yellow Jackets into a perennial contender.

In 2005, the Georgia Tech men’s tennis team once again continued to earn its place among the top programs in the nation, reaching the NCAA Tournament for the sixth time in seven years and had a doubles team compete in the NCAA Tournament for the first time since the 1994 season and also an individual compete in the NCAA Singles Championship for the 43rd time in school history. After opening the dual-match season with a 7-3 record, the Yellow Jackets fell to three ranked opponents, but then regrouped to win seven out of their next nine matches, including wins against Tulane and conference foes Wake Forest, North Carolina and NC State. After falling in the quarterfinals of the ACC Tournament to Florida State, the Jackets received an at-large bid to the NCAA Tournament, falling in a close match to Vanderbilt by the score of 4-3. At the NCAA Tournament, Jose Muguruza advanced to the Round of 32 while the doubles team of North and Rajevac, who earned an at-large bid into the tournament, advanced to the quarterfinals and earned all-American honors. North and Rajevac become the fourth players that Thorne has coached to earn All-American accolades.

During the the 2004 season, the Georgia Tech men’s tennis team once again continued to earn its place among the top programs in the nation, reaching the NCAA Tournament for the fifth time in six years and having an individual compete in the NCAA Singles Championship for the 42nd time in school history. After opening the dual-match season with a 5-0 record, the Yellow Jackets fell to three ranked opponents, but then regrouped to win five consecutive matches, including wins against Minnesota and Oregon and conference foes Wake Forest and Clemson. After dropping tough matches to Virginia and Georgia, Tech finished out the regular season winning five of six matches, including a 5-2 win over Florida State and a 4-3 come from behind match at South Carolina.

During the 2003 campaign, Georgia Tech resumed its climb into the top programs in the country, by reaching the NCAA Tournament for the fourth time in five seasons and climbing into the 14th spot in the national rankings midway through the year. The Jackets also boasted their first All-America honorees since 1988, as the doubles team of Roger Anderson and Scott Schnugg earned the honor after finishing the year as the country’s 10th-ranked tandem. The duo also earned All-ACC honors after winning the league’s Flight One Doubles title. Tech finished with a 12-10 record and notched seven wins over ranked opponents, including a 4-2 victory over ninth-ranked Texas on February 16.

In 2002, Tech defeated eight ranked teams and reached the finals of the ACC Championship, en route to a 15-11 dual-match record, while also reaching the NCAA Tournament for the third time in four years under Thorne. In the ACC Tournament, the Jackets upset top-seeded and 14th-ranked Duke in the semifinals by a 4-0 score and ended the Blue Devils four-year reign as ACC Champions. On an individual level, Roger Anderson earned All-ACC honors for the second time and earned his first berth in the NCAA Individual Championship, becoming the first Tech player to do so since 1999.

During the 2000-01 season, Thorne made great strides toward achieving his goal. When the Yellow Jackets climbed to No. 20 in the national rankings on April 11, they claimed their highest ranking since 1988, when Thorne was an All-American and team captain.

Thorne led the 2001 Yellow Jackets to the second round of the NCAA Tournament. Roger Anderson earned All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors and three Tech players earned ACC Flight championships in singles or doubles.

After earning 1999 ACC Coach of the Year honors in his inaugural campaign, Thorne boasted another solid year in 2000.

Under Thorne’s guidance in 2000, Anderson became the first Tech player to earn ACC Rookie of the Year honors after leading the Yellow Jackets with a 24-8 singles record, including a 15-5 mark in dual matches.

In his first year as head coach in 1999, Thorne earned ACC Coach of the Year honors after guiding the Yellow Jackets to a second-place tie in the regular-season conference standings, a runner-up finish at the ACC Tournament, an NCAA Regional berth and a final national ranking of 32 by the Intercollegiate Tennis Association (ITA).

Senior Benjamin Cassaigne was named the ACC Player of the Year, earned all-conference honors and captured the ACC Flight Championship at No. 1 singles under Thorne’s guidance. Fellow senior Matt Cozad was also named All-ACC and won the ACC Flight Championship at No. 2 singles. Cozad and sophomore Sergio Aguirre also won the ACC Flight title at No. 3 doubles.

With Tech’s 1999 NCAA Regional berth, Thorne became the first person in ACC history and just the second nationally to lead the same school to post-season competition as a player, assistant coach and head coach since the current NCAA team dual-match format was instituted in 1977. (Prior to 1977, team finishes were determined by an accumulation of points based on individual play.) Thorne helped Tech to NCAA play as a senior in 1988, as an assistant coach in 1998 and as head coach in 1999. He joined LSU’s Jeff Brown as the only other collegiate men’s coach to guide the same school to NCAA competition as a player, assistant and head coach under the current format.

Thorne earned an Industrial Engineering degree from Tech in 1989 and during his four seasons as a player from 1985-88, the Jackets posted a 70-38 dual-match record and a 20-7 ACC mark, including wins over nationally-ranked foes such as Georgia and Clemson in 1988, his final season. Tech climbed as high as 10th in the ITA national rankings during Thorne’s senior season before the Jackets ended the year ranked 12th nationally.

He qualified for the NCAA singles tournament in 1986 and 1988 and advanced to the second round on both occasions. Thorne also competed in the 1988 NCAA doubles tournament with partner Bryan Shelton.

After turning professional in 1989, Thorne spent eight years on the tour, achieving his highest singles ranking of 121 and doubles ranking of 67 in the world. He was also a six-time participant at Wimbledon, the U.S. Open, French Open and Australian Open.

Thorne’s best career wins were over 1996 Wimbledon champion Richard Krajicek, ATP No. 11 Wayne Ferreira, Australia’s Australian Mark Philippoussis and Todd Martin of the United States.

He posted two career ATP doubles titles, one career Challenger singles title and four career Challenger doubles titles.

An All-American in 1988, Thorne finished his Georgia Tech playing career as a four-time All-ACC honoree and the career leader in singles victories with 112.

He was also a two-time captain and an Academic All-ACC honoree. Thorne was inducted into the Georgia Tech Athletic Hall of Fame in 1995.

Thorne married former Yellow Jacket cross country standout and Tech Hall of Fame inductee, Bridget Koster, in 1990.

The couple has two daughters, Rachel, 10, and Kenedy, 6, and two sons, Zachary, 8, and Daniel 4.
Josh Hausman, formerly a head coach at University of South Carolina-Spartanburg, was added to the Georgia Tech tennis coaching staff in July of 2004 and begins his second season as the assistant coach.

As the men’s head coach at USC-Spartansburg, Hausman helped the Rifles finish with a No. 7 final ranking in the Intercollegiate Tennis Association (ITA) poll during the 2003-04 season. The team finished with an impressive 20-5 record and advanced as one of the final 16 teams in the NCAA tournament that year.

Hausman, a former player and team captain for USC-Spartanburg, helped the Rifles to a No. 23 national ranking during his senior year in 2001. Before transferring to USC-Spartanburg, he played two years at Kilgore Junior College in Texas, where he led the team as captain in 1999 to a Top-5 national ranking. Hausman finished his career at Kilgore with a Top-50 national singles ranking and Top-15 national doubles ranking in the ITA Tennis rankings. Prior to his position as head coach of the USC-Spartanburg tennis program, Hausman spent two years as assistant coach at his alma mater where he helped propel the men and women’s tennis teams into national prominence over the last two seasons and earned a share of the regular season Peach Belt Conference championship in 2003.

"Josh is a great addition to our coaching staff with his three years of collegiate coaching experience," said Thorne. "He is an extremely determined coach who understands the academic and athletic recruiting challenges at Tech and has coached some very good players over the past few years. I don’t think we could have hired anyone with a more positive attitude or better work ethic than Josh."

A native of Alice, TX., Hausman, 27, graduated from USC-Spartanburg in 2001 with a bachelor’s degree in corporate fitness.

The chief engineer of Georgia Tech’s determined effort to provide technological leadership in a changing world is Dr. G. Wayne Clough, the Institute’s 10th president and the first alumnus to serve in that capacity.

Dr. Clough received a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering in 1964 and then added a master of science in civil engineering from the Institute in 1965. He later earned his Ph.D. in 1969 from the University of California at Berkeley.

Clough’s skills as a civil engineer are evident in reshaping the campus to meet the needs of Tech’s world-class programs and students. He has overseen the construction of more than a dozen academic and research buildings, with several more on the drawing board. The campus is fully wired with 1,700 miles of fiber-optic cable and offers a comprehensive wireless environment as well.

To provide the additional resources required to reach this goal, Clough engineered the Campaign for Georgia Tech, which raised a record $712 million in five years for 54 endowed faculty chairs, 233 endowed scholarships, 11 new buildings, and a host of academic, research and athletic programs.

Beyond campus, he gives Georgia Tech a face and voice in Washington, D.C., as a member of the President’s Council of Advisors on Science and Technology and the executive committee of the U.S. Council of Competitiveness, and as chair of the National Academy of Engineering committee on the Engineer of 2020.

Clough came to Georgia Tech from the University of Washington, where he was Provost and Vice President of Academic Affairs. In this capacity, he served as chief budget officer and chief academic officer for the University, with responsibility for all budget and capital planning as well as the implementation of academic programs. Before moving to Seattle, Clough spent 10 years at Virginia Tech, first as Head of the Department of Civil Engineering, then as Dean of the College of Engineering. He has also been a member of the faculties of Duke University and Stanford University.

Dr. Clough has been the recipient of numerous awards and honors for teaching and research, including the 1986 George Westinghouse Award from the American Society of Engineering Education and the 1991 State-of-the Art Award from the American Society of Civil Engineers. He was elected to the National Academy for Engineering in 1990. In addition, he has served on the NCAA Division I Board of Directors since September of 2001, representing the ACC.

A native of Douglas, Ga., Dr. Clough has been married to Anne Robinson Clough for more than 30 years, and the couple has two grown children.

A national leader in his field, Georgia Tech Director of Athletics Dave Braine has made a career out of building successful programs. As he enters his ninth year at Tech, he has overseen tremendous growth in the Yellow Jackets’ overall athletics program while positioning Tech for the future with ambitious building projects.

Braine’s commitment to excellence in a total athletics program is exhibited by his belief in the Total Person Concept. Through the Total Person Program, Tech student-athletes benefit from a number of enrichment programs ranging from life skills and career planning to wellness and community outreach. The Homer Rice Center offers a motion analysis lab, a medical clinic and psychology lab which features the latest cardiology techniques, a nutrition center and a sports vision center. In addition, Georgia Tech is one of just six schools which is 100 percent in compliance with Title IX.

The 2004-05 school year proved to be one of the most successful campaigns in Tech history. During that year, eight Tech programs finished ranked among the nation’s Top 25, either in the final polls or NCAA standings: men’s basketball, volleyball, golf, baseball, softball, women’s tennis, women’s indoor track and women’s outdoor track, including Top 10 NCAA finishes by golf, baseball, volleyball and women’s tennis. Tech teams captured ACC Tournament titles in women’s tennis, softball and baseball along with regular-season championships in those three sports as well as volleyball. Yellow Jacket teams combined for a school-record 31st place finish in the annual NACDA Director’s Cup standings, which rank the overall success of athletics programs based on NCAA finishes in each sport. Tech’s No. 31 ties its finish from 2003-04 and shatters its previous high of 45th place in 1994.

Now in his 22nd year as an athletics director, Braine began his administrative career in 1978 when he was named an assistant director of athletics at Virginia. He then took a similar post at Fresno State in 1983 and was promoted to associate athletics director a year later. In 1985, Braine became Director of Athletics at Marshall University, where he remained until he was named Director of Athletics at Virginia Tech on January 1, 1988.

The Grove City, Pa., native earned both his bachelor’s (1965) as well as a master’s of arts and teaching (1966) degrees from the University of North Carolina, where he was a three-time football letterman. Braine has four children and eight grandchildren.
A High Tech Campus
Georgia Tech's new Technology Square is a lively, mixed-use development that extends the campus right into the middle of the Midtown Atlanta business community. The complex is home to the new Management building.

To shape a campus worthy of its aspirations, Georgia Tech continues to build innovative, state-of-the-art facilities.

Tech boasts outstanding housing facilities. Dormitories feature apartment-style accommodations with private bathroom, kitchen and sitting area in each suite.
ALL-AROUND EXCELLENCE

Two-time Olympian Vesna Stojanovska became the first Yellow Jacket to earn an ACC Championship when she did so in the 200 fly in 2005. She was one of 14 ACC Champions for Georgia Tech last season.

Softball standout Christine Sheridan earned one of Georgia Tech’s 67 all-ACC honors in 2005 as the starting shortstop for the 2005 ACC Champion softball team.

Middle blocker Unlike Stegemann was one of two Yellow Jackets to earn freshman all-conference honors in 2005.

Georgia Tech head baseball coach Danny Hall guided the Yellow Jackets to the ACC regular-season and tournament championships while earning ACC Coach of the Year honors in the process. In 2005, Georgia Tech won four regular season conference championships and three ACC Tournament championships and had four different coaches, including Hall, Ehren Earleywine (softball), Bryan Shelton (women’s tennis) and Bond Shymansky (volleyball), to earn conference coach of the year honors.

Jarrett Jack, a first-round pick in the 2005 NBA Draft, was one of four Georgia Tech athletes to earn Honorable Mention All-America honors in 2005.
ACR Rookie of the Year Calvin Johnson earned one of Georgia Tech’s three Freshman All-America honors last year while providing a plethora of breathtaking highlights during the 2004 football season.

Academic All-American Roberto Castro was one of nine Yellow Jackets to be named to the Academic All-District III team in 2005 and helped the golf team to a runner-up finish in the 2005 NCAA Championships. He finished third in the NCAA Championships and earned first-team All-America honors before helping the United States team to a victory over Europe to win the Palmer Cup.

2005 NCAA Indoor High Jump Champion Chauncey Howard finished her career as one of the most decorated female athletes in Georgia Tech history. She concluded her career with three national championships and won one of Georgia Tech’s three ACC Player of the Year Awards in 2005.

Freshman Kristi Miller became Georgia Tech’s first All-American in women’s tennis in 2005 and was one of 20 Yellow Jackets to earn All-America honors last season. She was also one of four Georgia Tech athletes to earn ACC Rookie of the Year honors and just the second in the history of the women’s tennis program to do so.

TRADITIONS

School Fight Song
"I'm a Ramblin' Wreck from Georgia Tech,
and a hell of an engineer.
A helluvia, helluvia, helluvia, helluvia, hell of an engineer.
Like all the jolly good fellows, I drink my whiskey clear.
I'm a Ramblin' Wreck from Georgia Tech,
and a hell of an engineer.

Oh, if I had a daughter, sir, I'd dress her in white and gold.
And put her on the campus to cheer the brave and bold.
But, if I had a son, sir, I'll tell you what he'd do.
He would yell "To Hell with Georgia" like his daddy used to do.

Oh I wish I had a barrel of rum and sugar three thousand pounds.
A college bell to put it in and a clapper to stir it around.
I'd drink to all good fellows who come from far and near.
I'm a Ramblin', Gamblin', hell of an engineer."

Buzz
The Yellow Jacket nickname and mascot are two of the most beloved trademarks of Georgia Tech athletic teams. The origin is unknown, but one thing is clear, the nickname did not grow out of the familiar six-legged insect, but that the mascot, known as "Buzz", grew out of the nickname.

"I'm a Ramblin' Wreck from Georgia Tech...."
It was Sept. 30, 1961. The opponent was Rice University for the home opener. For the first time, the official Rambling Wreck car was unveiled to 43,501 fans at Grant Field, leading the Georgia Tech football team onto the field. It has happened at every home game since. The event did not establish a new tradition, but it cemented one. The restored 1930
Model A Ford Sport Coupe was Tech's first official Rambling Wreck."
GEORGIA TECH TRADITIONS

Homecoming Displays
Each year during Homecoming Week, campus fraternities and sororities spend hours designing and building murals which are displayed in front of their houses for judging.

The Missing “T”
One of the most popular pranks for Tech students to accomplish is the stealing of the “T”, which sits upon the side of the Tech Tower on campus.

George P. Burdell
In 1927, a mythical student named George P. Burdell appeared on class rosters, registration forms and grade reports. He has since become one of Tech’s most notable students, Burdell was the creation of Ed Smith, who actually turned in separate exams for him, convincing professors that Burdell was a student in good standing. Burdell received a bachelor’s and later a master’s degree from Tech. Since Smith’s graduation, students have kept George P. Burdell alive at Tech, including the Georgia Tech band (above right) who has him paged at every away football game during the season.

The Whistle
Heard throughout Tech’s campus five minutes before the hour from 6:55 a.m. until 5:55 p.m., the blowing of the campus whistle signifies the beginning and end of each class period.

Made up entirely of Georgia Tech students, “The Swarm” can be found in their bright yellow t-shirts in prime seating locations at every home football, volleyball and men’s basketball game.

Mini 500
On the evening prior to the Homecoming football game, various student organizations compete in the “Mini 500”. In the four-person relay race, students must complete a lap around Peters Parking Deck using only one leg to push themselves on their team’s homemade tricycle.
THE ULTIMATE TROPHY: A GEORGIA TECH DEGREE

An ACC Champion in 2003, Joao Menano (above) graduated with a degree in Industrial Engineering in 2004.

U.S. News & World Report ranks Georgia Tech among the nation’s Top 10 public universities.

One of the top collegiate facilities in the nation, the Bill Moore Tennis Center serves as the home of the Georgia Tech tennis team.

The complex was opened for the 1988 season and officially dedicated on October 28, 1988, in honor of Bill Moore, whose efforts were vital in the construction of this impressive facility.

A graduate of Georgia Tech in management and a tennis letterman, Moore served as the chairman of the Kelly-Moore Paint Company, the largest independent paint company in the United States, and the Calmutual Insurance Company.

Located on Fowler Street across from Alexander Memorial Coliseum, the Bill Moore Tennis Complex features 12 outdoor courts and three indoor courts. The outdoor courts are divided into two tiers, and the top six courts are lighted and have permanent seating for 1,500 with the main grandstand along court number one and more seating along the baseline of the six courts.

The indoor facility is two stories, with three courts on the lower level, along with locker rooms for the men’s and women’s teams and visiting teams.

The upper level, known as the Hansard Room, houses a pro shop, coaches’ offices and a lounge area that includes trophy cases displaying Yellow Jacket tennis memorabilia.

Well-suited for hosting tournaments, the Bill Moore Tennis Center has been the site of numerous events, including the NCAA Region II Championship in 1997, the ACC Championship in 1998, and the 1st and 2nd Rounds of the NCAA Women’s Championship in 2005.

Since the opening of the Bill Moore Tennis Center, many improvements have been made. During the 2003 season, a scoreboard was installed with remote scoring devices to allow fans to track dual matches on all six courts.

In addition, cameras have recently been installed at the baseline of all six upper courts with the video equipment necessary to then allow coaches to meet with players and review matches and stroke techniques.

Most recently, plasma televisions have been added to the men’s and women’s lockerrooms making the Bill Moore Tennis Center one of the finest facilities in the nation.

After adopting the dual match format in 1988, the Georgia Tech men’s tennis team has participated in 10 NCAA Tournaments, including seven out of the last eight.

The 1988 squad received a bye into the Field of 16, falling to Michigan by the score of 5-4 while in 1994 the team advanced to the Field of 16 before losing to TCU, 4-1.

Since the expansion to 64 teams, the Yellow Jackets have advanced to the second round on two occasions, in 1999 and 2001.

2004-05 Recap

During the 2004-05 season, the Georgia Tech men’s tennis team once again continued to earn its place among the top programs in the nation, reaching the NCAA Tournament for the sixth time in seven years and having a doubles team compete in the NCAA Doubles Championship for first time since the 1994 season.

After opening the dual-match season with a 3-0 record, the Yellow Jackets dropped matches at Middle Tennessee State and Auburn and begin the ACC season with a 6-2 record. Tech then managed to lose four of the next five matches, including 4-3 defeats at Clemson and at Virginia Tech, but then regrouped to win matches against Arizona State and No. 18 Tulane. After a loss to No. 5 Duke, the Jackets finished out the ACC regular season winning four of five matches, including 4-3 wins over North Carolina State and North Carolina.

In the ACC Tournament, the Jackets defeated Maryland in the opening round before dropping a tough 4-2 decision to Florida State, who advanced to the ACC Tournament Finals. The Yellow Jackets earned an at-large berth in the NCAA Tournament for the fifth-straight year. The Jackets traveled to Gainesville, Fla., to face 38th-ranked Vanderbilt in the first round and after winning the doubles point, dropped four singles matches to lose by a 4-3 score.

The doubles team of Marko Rajevac and David North earned a bid into the NCAA Doubles Championship as alternates and won two matches over ranked opponents to advance to the Quarterfinals and earn All-America honors. The duo then fell to Georgia’s team of Jon Isner and Antonio Ruiz, who eventually won the tournament.

THE ATLANTIC COAST CONFERENCE

A Tradition of Excellence

Consistency. It's the mark of true excellence in any endeavor. However in today's intercollegiate athletics, competition has become so balanced and so competitive that it is virtually impossible to maintain a high level of consistency.

Yet the Atlantic Coast Conference has defied the odds. Now in its 53rd year of competition, the ACC has long enjoyed the reputation as one of the strongest and most competitive intercollegiate conferences in the nation. And that is not mere conjecture, the numbers support it.

Since the league's inception in 1953, ACC schools have captured 94 national championships, including 49 in women's competition and 45 in men's. In addition, 119 men and 61 women have earned the coveted title of NCAA champion.

A History

The Atlantic Coast Conference was founded on May 8, 1953, at the Sedgefield Inn near Greensboro, N.C. with seven charter members—Clemson, Duke, Maryland, North Carolina, North Carolina State, South Carolina and Wake Forest—drawing up the conference by-laws.

On December 4, 1953, conference officials met again at Sedgefield and officially admitted Virginia. The first and only withdrawal of a school from the ACC came on June 30, 1971 when South Carolina tendered its resignation.

The conference operated with seven members until April 3, 1978, when Georgia Tech tendered its resignation. The ACC expanded to nine members on July 1, 1991, with the addition of Florida State. The conference grew to 11 members on July 1, 2004, with the addition of the University of Miami and Virginia Tech. On October 17, 2003, Boston College accepted an invitation to become the league's 12th member starting with the 2005-06 academic year.

The Championships

The ACC will conduct championship competition in 25 sports during the 2005-06 academic year—12 for men and 13 for women. The first ACC Championship was held in swimming on February 25, 1954. The conference did not conduct championships in cross country, wrestling or tennis during the first year.

The 12 sports for men include football, cross country, soccer, basketball, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, wrestling, baseball, tennis, golf and lacrosse. Fencing, which was started in 1971, was discontinued in 1981.

Women's sports were initiated in 1977 with the first championship held in tennis at Wake Forest, October 6-8. Championships for women are now conducted in cross country, volleyball, field hockey, soccer, basketball, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, tennis, golf, lacrosse, softball and rowing.

ACC Tournament Notes: From 1965 to 1982, the conference champion was determined solely on the basis of a post-season tournament with points awarded based on individual play. From 1983 to 1985, the conference champion was based on points awarded for both regular-season and tournament play. The regular season results accounted for approximately 40 percent of the total and the tournament the remaining 60 percent. From 1986 to 1989, the conference champion was determined by a three-day single-elimination dual match tournament with a playback to determine places one through eight. Since 1990, the conference champion has been determined by a single-elimination dual match tournament with no playback. Since 1994, the tournament implemented the format of playing three doubles matches of pro-set length with the team winning two of the matches receiving one point for the team, followed by six singles played for one point each. The first team to reach four total points wins the match.

Bill Moore came to Georgia Tech in October, 1934 on a tennis scholarship and earned his living expenses performing a variety of campus jobs. He teamed with Russell Bobbit to win the Southeastern Conference doubles crown in 1938 and help the Yellow Jackets capture the team title. Inducted into the Tech Athletic Hall of Fame in 1972, Moore lost only one singles match during his collegiate career. Following his graduation, Moore worked for W.H. Kelley in the lab at Glidden Paint Co. in San Francisco before joining the Navy during World War II, where he served two years in the South Pacific as an officer on a destroyer.

After his military service, he convinced his former Glidden boss, who had retired, to join him in business, the Kelly-Moore Paint Co. After six years of steady growth, Kelly retired again and Moore bought him out. The business went on to become the largest privately held company in the United States. Moore also developed the Broken O Ranch, the largest irrigated acreage in Montana, and was chairman of CalMutual Insurance Co.

"One of my best memories of Bill Moore is when the team played in the NCAA Tournament at Stanford, and we had the opportunity to visit with him. I remember that it was like he was back in college, telling stories to all of the guys and laughing about all those memories. It really was a special time for the whole team, to meet someone who has given so much to this program. He and his family have meant a great deal to not just the tennis program, but the entire school, and it was an honor to spend that time with him."

-Georgia Tech Head Men's Tennis Coach Kenny Thorne

"I think that Bill Moore opened up a lot of opportunities for myself as well as the Georgia Tech tennis programs and Institute. When I arrived on campus in 1984, there was no indoor complex, but Bill Moore stepped forward and created a great indoor facility so that we could compete and develop as players. I think the success that the programs have had and are having are in part because of the opportunities that he has afforded us."

-Georgia Tech Head Women's Tennis Coach Bryan Shelton

The Bill Moore Tennis Center was opened for the 1988 tennis season and serves as the home of the Georgia Tech tennis teams. The center was officially dedicated in honor of Bill Moore, whose efforts were vital in the construction of the impressive facility, on October 28, 1988. The center has three lighted indoor courts, and two tiers of outdoor courts, six of which are lighted and have grandstand seating for 1,500. Well-suited for hosting tournaments, the Bill Moore Tennis Center has been the site of numerous major events over the last 10 years, including the NCAA Region Championships in 1997 and 2005, the ACC Championships in 1998, and the first and second rounds of the 2005 NCAA Women's Championship.

"Bill Moore Student Success Center"

The Bill Moore Student Success Center was made possible through the financial support of several donors, including a $5 million gift from Bill Moore, who said that his gift expressed his strong belief in the "Total Person Concept" and the intention to spread the concept to the entire Tech student body. "The center will be used to recruit all students, not just athletes," Moore said. "Its ongoing programs should help Tech attract the best and brightest candidates from the pool of potential students."

The Bill Moore Student Success Center currently houses Career Services, Student Financial Services and Planning, Corporate Liaison Program, Special Programs, and Undergraduate Admissions, and is located adjacent to the football stadium.
