The world of the twenty-first century presents new challenges. The speed of technological change has increased and a growing number of nations now compete in the technology space. Jobs and investments flow easily to the most promising locations. Innovation, flexibility and agility have become the keys to success.

THIS IS GEORGIA TECH
Nestled in the heart of Midtown Atlanta

The Georgia Institute of Technology, home of the Yellow Jackets, is one of the nation’s top research universities, distinguished by its commitment to improving the human condition through advanced science and technology.

Georgia Tech’s campus occupies 400 acres in the heart of the city of Atlanta, where more than 19,000 undergraduate and graduate students receive a focused, technologically based education.

Accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS), the institute offers many nationally recognized, top-ranked programs. Undergraduate and graduate degrees are offered in the College of Architecture, Engineering, Sciences, Computing, Management and the Ivan College of Liberal Arts. Georgia Tech is consistently ranked in the U.S. News & World Report’s top ten public universities in the United States.

The university is a national and international leader in scientific and technological research and education. Over the past decade, overall research expenditures increased by 84 percent to $355.4 million in 2006, while federal research expenditures increased 129 percent. Georgia Tech now ranks among the top five in research expenditures among universities without a medical school. In addition, Georgia Tech has an estimated $3.9 billion impact within the state of Georgia, according to a 2006 Strategic Economic Development report.
The Georgia Tech campus is nestled in the heart of Midtown Atlanta, one of the nation’s fastest-growing and most diverse cities.

Conveniently located on the third floor of the Edge Athletics Center, the Andrew Hearn, Sr. Academic Center houses staff and facilities to support the academic endeavors of Tech student-athletes. The academic support program is under the direction of Associate Director of Athletics Phyllis LaBaw.

The Hearn Center, which originally opened in 1984, has been expanded several times and now includes over 5,000 square feet of open and self-contained work area. Eighteen rooms of varying sizes flank a glass enclosed computer cluster with the latest hardware and software.

Study and tutoring rooms vary in size and offer secluded environments in which to work. Tutoring for classes ranging from biology to advanced engineering courses is scheduled daily.

The Hearn Academic Center, staff and programs offer the finest and most innovative educational advantages in the country. Student-athletes are provided a convenient place to study and meet with tutors and advisors.
The Rambling Wreck

September 30, 1961 versus Rice. For the first time, the official Rambling Wreck car led the Georgia Tech football team onto Grant Field. It’s happened at every home game since. The event did not establish a new tradition at Georgia Tech, but it cemented one. The vehicle, a restored 1930 Model A Ford Sport Coupe, was Tech’s first official Rambling Wreck car.

Since that time, the Rambling Wreck car has joined a much older tradition—the Yellow Jacket—as an official school mascot.

The term Rambling Wreck was first applied to a 1914 Ford owned by Floyd Field, Dean of Men. In the first published reference to the car as the “Rambling Wreck” in 1927, the Technique student newspaper spoke out against Field when he considered trading the car, but he did do it anyway.

Tech officials decided in the late 1950s that the school needed an official car that would be known forever as the Rambling Wreck. Dean of Students James Dull began a search for a pre-1940 vintage model, and finally found one—parked in front of his apartment building. The owner, Capt. Ted J. Johnson, a Delta Air Lines pilot, had just finished restoring the 1930 Ford Cabriolet Sport Coupe, which he intended to give to his son as a gift.

Johnson decided to let Tech have the car for $1,000 in May, 1961. He later returned the purchase price in the form of a contribution to the Alexander-Tharpe Fund, fulfilling a desire to go on record as having given the Rambling Wreck to Georgia Tech.

White & Gold

In the fall of 1891, before Georgia Tech organized a football team of its own, a game was scheduled between Auburn and Georgia. A rivalry was already established in baseball between Tech and Georgia, so Tech students were invited to the game to cheer, of course, for Auburn.

The students appointed a committee to recommend colors to be worn and cheers to be used at the game. The committee suggested white and gold, and about 200 students attended the game wearing those colors.

In 1893, when Georgia Tech’s football team played Georgia for the first time, a group of young women from the Lucy Cobb Institute for Girls attended the game to cheer for Tech, dressed in white and gold.

Oh well it’s up with the White and Gold
Down with the Red and Black
Georgia Tech is out for the victory
We’ll drop the battle axe on Georgia’s head
When we meet her, our team is sure to beat her
Down on the old farm there will be no sound
Till our bow-wows rip through the air
When the battle is over, Georgia’s team will be found
With the Yellow Jackets swarming around.
The Yellow Jacket

Conflicting accounts exist as to the origins and beginnings of the Yellow Jacket, but the nickname did not grow out of the familiar six-legged insect; rather, the insect mascot, known as "Buzz," grew out of the nickname. The first known reference to Tech students as "Yellowjackets" appeared in the Atlanta Constitution in 1905 and came into common usage at that time.

The name, spelled as one word, was first used to describe supporters who attended Tech athletic events, dressed in yellow coats and jackets. The actual mascot was conceived at a later, undetermined date.

Other nicknames which have applied to Tech teams include the Engineers; the Tecks, the first known nickname which was phased out around 1910; the Blacksmiths, common between 1902 and 1904; and the Golden Tornado, thought to be created by sportswriters when John Heisman led Tech to its first national title in 1917.

The Fight Song

The Georgia Tech fight song grew out of an old folk ballad, "The Sons of the Gamboliers."

Howard D. Cutter, a member of Tech's first graduating class (Mechanical Engineering, 1892), wrote in the November-December 1942 issue of the Georgia Tech Alumnus that the "Ramblin' Wreck" had its origins during the first two years after Tech opened in 1888, inspired when the entire student body traveled to Athens to see Tech's baseball team defeat Georgia.

By the early 1900s, "Ramblin' Wreck" was an established tradition. The earliest existing published version of the song appeared in the Blueprint, the Institute's yearbook, in 1908.

In 1910, Michael A. Greenblatt, Tech's first bandmaster, discovered the band playing "Ramblin' Wreck" to the tune of "Sons of the Gamboliers," and made his first arrangement of the song in the form of a handwritten manuscript.

When Frank Roman succeeded Greenblatt as bandmaster in 1911, he wrote a new adaptation of "Ramblin' Wreck," accompanied by many trumpet flourishes, that became nationally known. His is the version that continues to be popular today.

The fame of the song spread to such proportions that in 1959 it was sung by Richard Nixon and Nikita Khrushchev at their historic face-to-face meeting in Moscow. In 1984, the law firm of Newton, Hopkins & Ormsby investigated the copyright of "Ramblin' Wreck" and found that a number of people have had various versions of the song copyrighted. The original version of the song is in the public domain and can be played without payment of royalties.

I'm a Ramblin' Wreck from Georgia Tech and a hell of an engineer,
A helluva, helluva, helluva, helluva, hell of an engineer,
Like all the jolly good fellows, I drink my whiskey clear,
I'm a Ramblin' Wreck from Georgia Tech and a hell of an engineer.
Oh, if I had a daughter, sir, I'd dress her in White and Gold,
And put her on the campus, to cheer the brave and bold.
But if I had a son, sir, I'll tell you what he'd do.
He would yell, "To Hell with Georgia," like his daddy used to do.
Oh, I wish I had a barrel of rum and sugar three thousand pounds,
A college bell to put it in and a clapper to stir it around.
I'd drink to all good fellows who come from far and near.
I'm a ramblin', gamblin', hell of an engineer.

Q&A With Head Coach Stu Wilson

Coming off a pretty successful season last year and heading into this year, what are some of your goals as you work towards the conference championship?

“We definitely didn’t lose many swimmers last year. We added some firepower with a strong freshmen class and a few transfers so we will hopefully improve our standings at the ACC meet. That’s our goal – getting more points at the conference championship. Two more big goals we have are to qualify more swimmers for the NCAA Championships and keep breaking school records.”

As you look at some of the returners this year and some of the freshmen, do you think that you’re going to be deeper than in the past?

“We are a lot deeper in many areas. We picked up Gal Nevo, a transfer from Arizona State who just swam in the Olympics for Israel. He’s pretty versatile and can do a lot of good things for us and help us at dual-meets. We also added Ilia Ayzenstok, a transfer from Purdue University. He’s going to be one of our backstroke swimmers and makes that area much deeper.

“The freshmen class has made it a little more exciting just because it has created a more competitive atmosphere for the whole team fighting for that spot. By doing that, it makes the returners work harder and the team much better. For the women’s side, the additions of Keren Siebner and Sarah Broadley will help us in the relay events as well as some free style events and the breast stroke as well. Brittany Gobat, Lisa Pucci and Hen Pauker will also make the breaststroke much stronger as well.

“The relay is probably going to be our strongest point. We’re much better at the relays this year than we have been in the past. Now we have a chance to get double the points in the ACC meet. If we can qualify for two or three relays at the NCAA Championships, that could really raise our rankings considerably.”

Speaking of Gal [Nevo], what experiences do you think he can bring back from the Olympics and share with the team?

“He has experience at the highest level of competition. He can bring that experience back to the team and show them what it took to get to that level. He has definitely already sparked a fire to a lot of these returners because they see how hard he works. Also, I’ve already seen him talk to some of the returners about what they can do to get better. It’s a big help to be able to get Gal to come into the picture and show our team that hard work does pay off.”

With Gal and Ilia, a pair of Pac-10 and Big Ten champions, respectively coming to Georgia Tech, what do you look for when these guys are coming in with only a year or two left?

“One of our goals is to race every single meet to the best of our ability despite the fact that you may be running down. When the ACC comes around and they are tapered, they’re going to be able to shine. We need to train so hard but yet still be able to race as well in dual meets. I think if we keep up the intensity level I have seen in practice then a lot of people are going to be pleased with the results. This is a special team that has a chance to break a lot of records and make a splash come ACC and NCAA Championships time.”

With a long season leading up to the ACC meet at the end of February, what are you primarily working on in the early portion of the season?

“Right now, we are really focusing on cardiovascular work and getting in shape. We need to be much stronger. Jason [Benguche], our strength and conditioning coach, is definitely putting the hammer on. What I told these guys in the very beginning of the season is that dual meets are important. They need to learn to race when they’re tired. That is what we’re trying to teach them to do.

“Hopefully they’ll bring what experience they had and help the team understand that Gal being a Pac 10 champion and NCAA qualifying Olympian he definitely can bring the level of performance higher than what it was last year. Same thing goes for Ilia coming from the Big 10. Here are two guys that want to come here because they know they’ll get better. It makes us deeper all around which is something we have been focusing on. We’re not putting a lot of pressure on these two guys because you know their experience will help us a lot. Their presence will make a difference and I have already seen it rubbing off on the rest of the team in practice.”

John AMES
Diving Coach * 8th Year
Ohio, 1993

John Ames is in his eighth season as diving coach for the Yellow Jacket swimming and diving program. Last season, he coached Tech’s first female diving All-American as then-sophomore Hannah Krimm finished seventh on the three-meter springboard. Krimm was also recognized as a honorable mention All-American on the one-meter board, while then-senior Stephanie England was a honorable mention All-American in the three-meter and platform events. The Tech divers accounted for all 21 of the Jackets’ total points at the NCAA Championships helping them to a 30th-place finish — it’s highest in program history.

At the 2007-08 ACC Championships, Ames led Krimm to a second-place finish on the one-meter board, while England was second in the platform and third in the three-meter. Krimm and England moving on to NCAA’s in Columbus, Ohio.

Under Ames’ tutelage, Evan Stowers became the first Tech diver to qualify for the NCAA Championships in 2006. In the Georgia Tech Aquatic Center, Stowers again made history by finishing seventh on the men’s platform, becoming the first Tech diver to garner All-America honors. In 2007, Stowers returned to the NCAA Championships, earning All-America honors for the second consecutive season.

At the 2006 ACC Championships, Stowers became just the second GT diver, first under Ames, to win an ACC championship as he captured the men’s three-meter springboard. He also became the first diver to earn All-ACC honors on both springboards. Besides Stowers, Krimm and England, two other Tech divers have garnered all-conference honors under Ames’ guidance. Former men’s diving standout Paul McCarty (2001-04) earned All-ACC honors on the one-meter springboard in 2002, while former diver Tony Burkhardt accomplished that same feat at the ’05 ACC Championships.

In 2005, the women’s diving program took its first steps towards being a force at the ACC Championships, as junior Laurissa Prystaj and England both finaled on the three-meter board, making it the highest scoring event for Tech in women’s diving history. The duo of England and Krimm trumped that performance when both Yellow Jacket divers qualified for the finals in all events. The duo then took another step forward when they combined to garner All-ACC in every diving event at the 2008 conference championships, and followed that up with All-American honors.

Along with his coaching duties at Tech, Ames also mentors the Atlanta Diving Association, which has quickly become the top United States Diving program in the state of Georgia. This season, his divers won three individual National Championships, while one went on to qualify for Junior World Championships.

Hired in August 2001, Ames came to Tech from George Washington University and the Montgomery Dive Club, one of the largest diving programs in the nation. Prior to his stint with Montgomery and George Washington, Ames served as an assistant coach with the Northern Virginia Dive Club. He also worked as a graduate assistant and diving coach at Western Illinois University.

Ames graduated from Ohio University in 1993 with a bachelor’s degree in psychology after completing his collegiate diving career with the Bobcats. He earned a Master of Science degree in sport administration while at Western Illinois.

In addition to his role as interim president, Schuster also serves as provost and executive vice president for Academic Affairs and holds the position of professor and Vasser Woolley Chair of Chemistry and Biochemistry. Prior to being named Georgia Tech’s provost in 2006, he served as dean of the College of Sciences for twelve years.

Schuster is a nationally known scholar and researcher with an extensive list of published articles on topics ranging from biochemistry to physical chemistry, as well as a number of scientific discoveries with commercial applications. His research interests focus on the interaction of light with matter and the investigation of small molecules that bind and cut DNA selectively when irradiated with light. This work has applications to understanding the origin of certain diseases—such as cancer—and aging.

Dr. Gary Schuster became interim president of Georgia Tech on July 1, 2008, and will serve in that role until the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia names a permanent president.

One of Schuster’s best-known discoveries is called chemically initiated electron exchange luminescence. It provides the mechanistic basis that allows the understanding of the bioluminescence of the North American firefly. This discovery forms the basis for new clinical diagnostic procedures that have recently been commercialized.

Schuster holds a bachelor’s degree in chemistry from Clarkson College of Technology and a PhD in chemistry from the University of Rochester. After twenty years in the Chemistry Department at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, he became dean of the College of Sciences and professor of chemistry and biochemistry at Georgia Tech in 1994. He was a National Institutes of Health postdoctoral fellow at Columbia University, a fellow of the Sloan Foundation, and a Guggenheim fellow. He also received the 2006 Charles Holmes Herty Medal recognizing his work and service contributions since his arrival at Georgia Tech.

Schuster and his wife, Anita, have two sons, a granddaughter, and a grandson.

Dan RADAKOVICH
Athletic Director * 3rd Year
Indiana (Pa.), 1980

Entering his third year as Georgia Tech’s Director of Athletics, Dan Radakovich has brought a new vision for excellence to the Yellow Jackets’ storied athletics tradition.

In a relatively short amount of time since arriving in Atlanta, Radakovich has put his mark on Georgia Tech’s athletics program. In the 2007-08 academic year, Radakovich earned national praise from his peers with the hiring of football coach Paul Johnson, who had been extremely successful at Navy and previously at Georgia Southern.

Yellow Jacket teams enjoyed a solid year in ’07-08. The women’s basketball team, emerging as one of the top programs in the South, earned its second straight NCAA Tournament appearance. The defending NCAA champion women’s tennis team returned to the Elite Eight. The baseball team overcame major obstacles to win more than 40 games and advance to the NCAA Tournament. The softball team, another rising program, returned to the NCAA Tournament for the seventh straight year. The football team won seven regular season games and went to a bowl game for the 11th consecutive year.

Several facility upgrades have been completed, including the transformation of Tech’s former football locker room on the ground floor of the Edge Athletic Center into a new Technology Center, which benefits academic support services for all Yellow Jacket student-athletes. A new on-campus softball facility is scheduled for completion in early 2009.

Named Georgia Tech’s Director of Athletics on February 22, 2006, Radakovich possesses nearly two decades of experience in collegiate athletics management positions. He came to Georgia Tech after five years as senior associate athletics director at LSU (2001-06), and he previously served as the Athletics Director at American University in 2000-01. That followed stints as associate athletics director at South Carolina (1994-2000) and Long Beach State (1989-94) as well as two years as the athletics business manager at Miami (1983-85).

Just the seventh Director of Athletics in Tech history, Radakovich was named by then Institute President Dr. Wayne Clough to succeed Dave Braine, who retired after nearly nine years in the post. Radakovich also follows in the footsteps of storied names such as John Heisman, Bobby Dodd and Homer Rice.

“Dan Radakovich brings a unique combination of enthusiasm for sports, concern for student athletes, experience in athletic administration, business experience and communication skills that are needed in today’s complex world of intercollegiate athletics,” said Dr. Clough.

A graduate of Center High School near Aliquippa, Pa., and a member of its Alumni Hall of Fame, Radakovich, 50, became a football letterwinner and student coach at Indiana University of Pennsylvania, where he graduated in 1980 with a bachelor of science degree in finance. He was enshrined into the Beaver County Sports Hall of Fame earlier this year.

Radakovich added a master’s degree in business administration from Miami in 1982. He also completed the Sports Management Institute’s executive education program in 1992.

He is married to the former Marcie McDonald, and the couple has two children, Christian, 18, and Grant, 14. Christian is a freshman at Georgia Tech.

The Atlantic Coast Conference

The Tradition
Consistency. It is the mark of true excellence in any endeavor. However, in today's intercollegiate athletics, competition has become so balanced and so competitive that it is virtually impossible to maintain a high level of consistency.

Yet the Atlantic Coast Conference has defied the odds. Now in its 56th year of competition, the ACC has long enjoyed the reputation as one of the strongest and most competitive intercollegiate conferences in the nation. And that is not mere conjecture, the numbers support it.

Since the league's inception in 1953, ACC schools have captured 109 national championships, including 57 in women's competition and 52 in men's. In addition, NCAA individual titles have gone to ACC student-athletes 145 times in men's competition and 92 times in women's action.

The success of ACC swimming and diving continues to reach new heights since the league sponsored the sport for men in 1954 and for women in 1979. The 2007-08 season proved to be another storied campaign, as the league produced two NCAA individual champions and had 15 student-athletes named NCAA All-Americans along with 22 others earning All-American Honorable Mention. Miami's Jaelin Hogshead won the three-meter diving event at the NCAA, giving the ACC consecutive diving national champions for the first time in league history. Brittany Viola, also of Miami captured the platform diving national title for the league's first women's diving championship.

Last year, the conference sent five schools from each of the men's and women's programs to the NCAA Swimming and Diving Championships with two finishing among the Top 25 in each of their respective team standings. It also marked the fifth consecutive year the ACC has had at least five teams selected to compete in the NCAA Championships. Eight teams from the women's ranks made NCAA last season to set a new league high. Seven men's teams made the national post-season event for the third time in league history.

ACC men's swimming and diving have accounted for 228 NCAA All-Americans, 16 national individual champions and one national championship relay team in the 54 years of its storied program. Six of the 12 schools have claimed an ACC championship crown with three of the schools having won 10 or more titles. NC State leads all member schools with 24 total conference championships (21 outright), while North Carolina has clinched 17 (13 outright) and Virginia captured 11.

North Carolina's Phillip Drake and NC State's Bob Mattson became the first ACC pair to capture NCAA championships in 1955. Drake won the 200 butterfly, while Mattson took first place in the 200 breaststroke. There would be five more NCAA individual champions from NC State over the years, including two-time NCAA champion Dick Fadgen (200 breaststroke and 200 butterfly) in 1956 and most recently Cullen Jones, the 2006 NCAA champion in the 50 freestyle.

Women's swimming and diving have established its own standard of success over the past 29 years. Approximately 255 student-athletes have been named NCAA All-Americans and six were crowned NCAA individual champions. North Carolina has been a dominating presence in the ACC, winning 18 outright league championships (1981-86, 1991-96, 2000-02 and 2007). The Tar Heels also boast one of the best all-time swimmers in conference history. Sue Walsh won 10 national collegiate individual championships and never lost a backstroke race in her three years of NCAA competition. Clemson's Mitz Kremer was also a swimming sensation for the ACC, as she won both the 200 and 500 freestyle events at the NCAA in 1987 and 1989. Virginia's Cara Lane was also an NCAA champion in two different events, winning the 1500 freestyle in 2000 and placing first place the following year in the 1650 freestyle.

Countless numbers from both the ACC men's and women's swimming and diving programs have competed at the international level and continued on to become world champions and Olympians. Among the numerous Olympians who hailed from the league were North Carolina's Thompson Mann and Sue Walsh as the first male and female representatives. Mann picked up a gold medal in the 1964 Olympics, while Walsh was a member of the 1980 U.S. Olympic Team.

In addition, the ACC has had several Olympic medalists including a league-best six from NC State in Steve Rerych (1968), Dan Harrigan and Steve Gregg (1976), Duncan Goodhew (1976 and 1980), David Fox (1996) and Cullen Jones (2008). North Carolina's Mann became the first Olympic medalist for the ACC men, while Duke's Nancy Hogshhead was the conference's first female swimmer to collect an Olympic medal. Mann helped the U.S. 400-meter relay team capture the gold medal as its leadoff swimmer in the 1984 Olympics in Tokyo, Japan. He also set a world record at the Tokyo Olympic Games in the 100 backstroke (59.80 seconds), becoming the first person to ever eclipse the minute at that distance.

Hogshhead shared the gold medal with fellow American Carrie Steiniseifer after the pair claimed a dead-heat victory in the 100 freestyle at the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles, Calif. She was also a member of the U.S. gold-medal-winning 400-meter freestyle and 400-meter medley relay teams. Hogshhead also won silver in the 200 individual medley.

ACC swimming and diving has also excelled in the classroom, as the men's and women's programs have combined for 23 CSCAA Academic All-Americans and 26 others selected to an All-Academic Team by either the CSCAA, CoSIDA/ESPN The Magazine or both national organizations.

All told, the ACC boasts over 545 All-Americans, 55 NCAA individual champions, two national championship relay teams and countless numbers of Olympians.

A History
The Atlantic Coast Conference was founded on May 8, 1953, at the Sedgefield Inn near Greensboro, N.C., with seven charter members - Clemson, Duke, Maryland, North Carolina, North Carolina State, South Carolina and Wake Forest - drawing up the conference bylaws.

The withdrawal of seven schools from the Southern Conference came early on the morning of May 8, 1953, during the Southern Conference's annual spring meeting. On June 14, 1953, the seven members met in Raleigh, N.C., where a set of bylaws was adopted and the name became officially the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Suggestions from fans for the name of the new conference appeared in the region's newspapers prior to the meeting in Raleigh. Some of the names suggested were: Dixie, Mid South, Mid Atlantic, East Coast, Seaboard, Colonial, Tobacco, Blue-Gray, Piedmont, Southern Seven and the Shoreline.

Duke's Eddie Cameron recommended that the name of the conference be the Atlantic Coast Conference, and the motion was passed unanimously. The meeting concluded with each member institution assessed $200.00 to pay for conference expenses.

On December 4, 1953, conference officials met again at Sedgefield and officially admitted the University of Virginia as the league's eighth member. The first, and only, withdrawal of a school from the ACC came on June 30, 1971, when the University of South Carolina tendered its resignation.

The ACC operated with seven members until April 3, 1978, when the Georgia Institute of Technology was admitted. The Atlanta school had withdrawn from the Southeastern Conference in January of 1964.

The ACC expanded to nine members on July 1, 1991, with the addition of Florida State University.

The conference expanded to 11 members on July 1, 2004, with the addition of the University of Miami and Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University. On October 17, 2003, Boston College accepted an invitation to become the league's 12th member starting July 1, 2005.

History

EARLY YEARS

Georgia Tech first fielded a swim team in 1918-19, when the first tryout was held at the city Y.M.C.A. and about 60 men came out. According to the Blueprint, the fledgling squad featured "some of the fastest water splashers that the South has ever turned out and one that would make any Eastern college hustle to beat." The team was captained by G.R. Fraser, described as the best swimmer in the South and holder of the Southern record in both the 220-yard swim and the 50-yard swim.

Tech's first swim meet was on the road against the Clemson Tigers. In addition to Fraser, the first Tech team included Weiss, Scott, Carson, Evans and Owens, who returned with a 50 to 19 victory. Fraser swam the 220 yards in 2:50.00, cutting four seconds off his own Southern record.

The program enjoyed success against Southern competition throughout the 1920s. In 1927, Tech defeated all Southern opposition and made a good showing against two strong eastern teams. The Jackets broke into prominence by forcing the famous Brooklyn Y team to the limit, but fell 46 to 16. Two days later, Yale handed the Jackets the short end of a 46 to 16 score.

In 2003-04, the Yellow Jackets gave birth to a brand new renovated Georgia Tech Aquatic Center. Tech opened the enclosed Olympic pool by hosting NC State on Oct. 25, 2003.

With the home fans cheering them on, the Rambling Wreck swam past the visiting Wolfpack, 132-107 (men) and 152-91 (women).

EARLY CHAMPIONS

The Yellow Jacket tankmen, despite the lack of an on-campus facility, won 10-straight unofficial Southern championships from 1926-35.

In 1927, Dave Young tied the national intercollegiate record in the 150-yard backstroke in 1:43.20. Representing Tech in the national intercollegiate, Young set a new record of 1:46.10 seconds and in the finals established a new record of 1:44.00, finishing four seconds ahead of Spindle of Michigan to win Tech's only national championship in swimming. He also earned All-America honors with a second-place finish in the 220-yard free style.

KENNETH THRASH, SR. [1932-35]

After playing football at Tech, Kenneth Thrash, Sr., took over the swimming reigns and led the Jackets to four straight Southern Conference Championships from 1932-35.

Almost as impressive as five consecutive conference titles, Thrash only tasted defeat once in dual meets, finishing with an astonishing record of 24-1. His winning percentage of .980 is the best all-time in school history. As a former football player for the Rambling Wreck (1926-28), Thrash helped the Yellow Jackets win two conference titles (1927-28) and a national championship in 1928.

FRED LANOUE [1936-64]

Fred Lanoue, a graduate of Springfield College and former New England diving champion, began working with the Tech swimmers in 1936 and became the Yellow Jackets' full-time head coach in 1938 when the Tech pool was completed.

Under Lanoue's guidance, Tech won four Southeastern Conference championships in nine years, the first in 1942 and then three in a row in 1948, 1949 and 1950. Lanoue coached the Jackets for 27 years, stepping down after the 1964 season.

HERB MCAULEY [1965-87]

The star of the 1942 SEC championship squad was Herb McAuley, who won the SEC 220 and 440 freestyle championships that year.

McAuley had his schooling interrupted by World War II, serving in the Army Signal Corps before graduating from Tech with a degree in electrical engineering in 1947. Upon graduation he joined the Yellow Jacket staff as assistant coach under Lanoue, a position he held for 17 years.

McAuley succeeded Lanoue as head coach for the 1965 season. He coached the Jackets for 23 seasons, compiling a record of 169-144-1. He was inducted into the Georgia Tech Hall of Fame in 1982. Under McAuley, Tech competed in its first ACC Championships in 1980. The program took a one-year hiatus upon McAuley's retirement in 1987, which signaled the end of a 40-year stint on the Tech coaching staff.

BRAD LEHMAN [1988-91]

The swimming program resumed under Brad Lehman in 1988-89. In Lehman's first year, senior Tim Halligan earned All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors following his second-place finish in the 200 butterfly. Halligan qualified for the NCAA Championships in the event, finishing 21st. Lehman coached the team for three seasons, amassing an overall record of 19-13.

BILL HUMBER [1992-97]

Bill Humber took over the Tech program in 1991-92. In 1993, he guided the Jackets to their then-best showing at the ACC Championships with a sixth-place finish and a then school-record point total of 138.

In 1994, diver Brandon Lumm won the first ACC championship in the program's history with his victory in the three-meter event. He earned All-ACC recognition that year and qualified for Bill Humber tailed a dual meet record of 38-45 during his six-year tenure at Georgia Tech.

SETH BARON [1998-2005]

In August 1987, Tech hired Seth Baron to take the helm of the men's swimming and diving program. The Jackets' women's program debuted in 2001-02, and Baron took on the combined program. Baron, formerly an assistant coach at South Carolina and Auburn, also previously worked with the U.S. National Swim Team and was the head coach for the U.S. squad at the 1997 and 2001 World Maccabiah Games in Tel Aviv, Israel.

Under Baron's direction, the Tech men finished in the top five at the ACC Championships in five consecutive seasons, including a third-place finish in his final season as head coach in 2005. Tech finished 32nd at the 2005 NCAA Championships, cracking the Top 35 for the fifth straight year.

In just four seasons of existence, the women's program tallied a 33rd-place finish at the 2004 NCAA Championships and crowned its first All-American in Vesna Stojanovska. The Jackets posted three consecutive sixth-place finishes at the ACC meet, tallying a program-best 286.5 points last season. The Jackets also qualified two swimmers for the 2005 NCAA Championships for the first time in program history; Stojanovska and freshman Elizabeth Stowe. Junior Sam Morgan qualified...
History

As an athlete, Baron also competed for the U.S. National Team, winning 10 gold medals in international competitions, including the 1985 World Maccabiah Games and the 1983 Pan Am Maccabiah Games in Sao Paulo, Brazil. He participated in the U.S. Olympic Trials in 1984 and qualified for the 1988 Trials.

In 2000, Baron and the Yellow Jackets finished 14th in the mile. Stojsanovska advanced to her second straight NCAA meet in 2005, after becoming the first women’s athlete to win an ACC title, doing so in the 200 fly. Stowe qualified for ACC honors in the mile, making her and Stojsanovska the first all-conference tandem at a conference championship.

Along with collegiate accomplishments, the Tech combined program witnessed its first two Olympians in 2004 as Stojsanovska (Macau) and incoming freshman Onur Uras (Turkey) competed at the Summer Olympics in Athens, Greece. Joining them in Athens were former men’s swimming standouts Leo Salinas (Mexico) and volunteer assistant coach Jorge Oliver (Puerto Rico).

Tech recorded its most successful season to date in 2001-02. Tech’s men tallied 580.5 points to finish a program-best second at the ACC Championships, as a record five Jackets earned All-ACC honors. Tech also placed 27th at the NCAA Championships, led by Shilo Ayalon’s eighth-place finish in the 1650 free. He earned All-America accolades for the sixth consecutive season.

In 2000-01, the Yellow Jackets placed third at the ACC Championships, scoring 434.50 points. Four swimmers earned All-ACC accolades: Ayalon, David Laitala, Scott Lena and Tomanori Tsuji.

Tech also scored its first points in NCAA competition in 2001. Ayalon placed 11th in the 1650 free, while Tsuji finished 13th in the 200 breast to become the program’s first All-Americans.

The Jackets went 11-3 in dual-meet competition, and 16 school records were established, led by Ayalon’s four marks.

In 2000, Baron and the Yellow Jackets finished the regular season with a 5-6 dual-meet record. Laitala became the first Yellow Jacket swimmer in 11 years to earn All-ACC recognition, placing second in the 100 butterfly at the ACC Championships. In his first season at Tech, Baron guided the team to a 4-7 dual-meet record and a seventh-place finish in the ACC Championships.

As an athlete, Baron also competed for the U.S. National Team, winning 10 gold medals in international competitions, including the 1985 World Maccabiah Games and the 1983 Pan Am Maccabiah Games in Sao Paulo, Brazil. He participated in the U.S. Olympic Trials in 1984 and qualified for the 1988 Trials.
