

“Kenne Mich” Podcast Series

by Kestra James

Order of Episodes

1. Family Ties
2. Friendship and Dating
3. Education
4. The “Nod”
5. Social Media
6. Popular Culture
7. Identity

Episode Descriptions

Family Ties

This episode uncovers the impact of familiar relationships for Afro-Germans and black people in Germany, specifically analyzing the relationship with one’s African heritage and how it effects their sense of community and self.

Friendship and Dating

This episode highlights how Afro-Germans and black people in Germany create friendships and attempt to date while living in Germany, while also uncovering the negative aspects of friendship and dating as an Afro-German and black person in Germany.

Education

This episode explores the experiences of Afro-Germans and black people in Germany in the German School System, as well as an analysis of the education on African heritage and colonization in the German school system.

The “Nod”

This episode focuses on if and how Afro-Germans and black people in Germany recognize each other within spaces that are predominately white, whether verbal, physical, or other means of communication.

Social Media

The episode uncovers what social media applications and platforms best serve the Afro-German and black community in Germany in creating a sense of community, and how they are using these platforms to create more space for themselves.

Popular Culture

This episode highlights prominent figures and organizations in the Afro-German community, including but not limited to politicians, social media influencers, musicians, celebrities, nonprofits, and networks.

Identity

This episode analyzes what it means to be Afro-German or black in Germany, expanding the understanding of this identity.